Flooded Town

ST. MARYS, Mo. (AP) — "What wasn't destroyed is still just soaking wet," says a resident of this Mississippi River town still cleaning up after its worst flooding in 200 years.

"There's a lot of confusion over that government stuff," William Hatton, a carpenter, said Wednesday. Thirty St. Marys families were forced from their homes in the losing battle against the rising river less than a month ago, but only one has been able to move back. Most have been waiting for federal disaster loans to come through.

"The red tape is hard enough for the people to figure out who make up these programs, let alone the average guy," Hatton added.

A spokesman for the Small Business Administration in St. Louis said approval of the loan applications is taking longer now than several weeks ago because applications have greatly increased since the water began to recede.

A crew of the Missouri Highway Department was at work reinforcing an overpass weakened late in April when the swirling floodwaters inundated it and cut St. Marys in two.

The land from which U.S. Coast Guard boats had been ferrying school children to and from St. Marys elementary school was high and dry Wednesday. The town's 600 residents were casually going about their business.

It will be many months — if ever — before St. Marys returns to normal, Hatton said.

"This is an old town to start with and the flood was devastating."

Invaded Eton

LONDON (AP) — The student magazine of Eton, that school for young gentlemen who go around in top hats, says American tourists with cameras are turning the ancient college into "the ultimate game reserve."

An article in the Eton Chronicle adds that the students are fed up with having tourists prowling around in hopes of taking a picture of "an animal sired by a real, live lord."

"No sooner has the sole of that polished Gucci shoe touched the ground than its wearer is confronted with the Etonian," the Chronicle says.

"Now he is in the middle of the ultimate game reserve, where the animals are so docile that they will offer only their best profiles to be imprinted on the celluloid."

"Rent-a-native is becoming a well-established means of being shunted around the sights."

"How long will it be before Etonians will be paid to pose for photographs, even to wear perpetual smiles?"

So how does the Etonian, blue-blooded offspring of the nation's elite, feel about the snap-happy Americans who come to stare?

"In short," said the magazine, "he feels himself infinitely superior to the bus-borne, gaily colored rabble."

Ford—Terrorists

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Ford Motor Co. has given in to terrorist demands for $1 million in medical supplies for hospitals in Argentina, officials said Wednesday.

Edgar R. Molina, Ford vice president for Asian, Pacific and Latin American, made the decision after talking with company officials in Buenos Aires where two employees were shot and wounded by terrorists Tuesday.

"We have no idea what precipitated the attacks," Molina said.

He added that Ford's Argentina operation had received no threats or ransom demands before the shootings.

The demands from the Trotskyite People's Revolutionary Army called for 22 ambulances for each of seven provinces in Argentina — 154 ambulances in all — and direct donations to hospitals in the area for operations and equipment, Molina said.

The material demanded is valued at about $1 million.

"We will turn the equipment over directly to the hospitals," Molina said.

Ford declined to comment further.

Magazine Awards

NEW YORK (AP) — The Atlantic Monthly, New York Magazine, Business Week, Horizon and Psychology Today were named recipients of the 1973 National Magazine Awards Wednesday.

Elie Abel, dean of Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism, announced the awards for "editorial excellence in magazine journalism."

The awards, sponsored by Columbia, were given in the following categories:

General excellence — to Business Week for "its consistently high level of performance as a business news magazine, exemplified by its special issue on productivity."

Specialized journalism — to Psychology Today for its "imaginative and skillful interpretation of a complex field to a general audience."

Visual excellence — awarded to Horizon for "the consistently high level of the quality of its reproductions and the effective manner in which they are combined with the text to give clarity and meaning to its content."

Fiction — awarded to The Atlantic Monthly for Grace Paley's short story, "Enormous Changes at the Last Minute."

Reporting excellence — to New York Magazine for its "sprightly approach to covering the broad aspects of life in the New York metropolitan region — from enterprising consumer service to the investigation of urban trends."

The National Magazine Awards were established in 1965 and will be presented Thursday at a luncheon in the Plaza Hotel.

Kissinger, Tho Made 'Significant Progress'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Henry A. Kissinger said Wednesday in Paris he and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho have made "significant progress" in six days of talks to make the Vietnam peace agreement work better.

Before departure for Washington, Kissinger told newsmen he and Tho will meet again June 6 to complete a new accord designed to stop cease-fire violations.

Kissinger's chief aide in the cease-fire talks, William Sullivan, was in Saigon to report to President Nguyen Van Thieu on the Paris sessions.

Kissinger, smiling and visibly relaxed, read a prepared statement which he said he had cleared in advance with Tho.

"He will confirm what I am saying," Kissinger declared.

He said Sullivan was submitting agreed proposals to Thieu in Saigon and hinted that neither the United States nor Hanoi would allow possible objections from Thieu to prevent conclusion of the new agreement at the next session.

Sullivan flew to Saigon Tuesday night after attending Kissinger-Tho meetings for a total of more than 30 hours and several meetings at expert level, including a 12-hour session Sunday.

Kissinger conferred with Tho for almost seven hours Wednesday, making a total of more than 31 hours of intensive talks with the North Vietnamese leader since May 17.

Details of the proposals the two men worked out were not disclosed.

Kissinger and Tho were known to have discussed every aspect of the violations that have paralyzed the operation of the Jan. 27 peace agreement.

The United States has accused North Vietnam of massive infiltration of troops and arms into South Vietnam and military intervention in Cambodia and Laos in open and continuous breach of the accord.

North Vietnam has alleged that American arms and military advisers disguised as civilians have continued to pour into South Vietnam.

Ministerial Level Drugs, Sex Scandal Surfaces In England

LONDON (AP) — Britain's aristocratic Royal Air Force minister was accused of possessing dangerous drugs Wednesday night, one day after resigning and only hours after confessing he consorted with a call girl.

Prime Minister Edward Heath, facing the country's worst sex and security furor since the Profumo affair 10 years ago, was pressured to launch a judicial inquiry. The Profumo scandal caused the downfall of the Conservative government of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Heath was reported anxious to avoid any suggestion of a cover-up amid allegations of a VIP vice ring embracing prostitution, pornography and drugs.

Informants said Heath personally ordered Scotland Yard to investigate three weeks ago when he first was alerted to impropriety in high places.

Lord Lambton, 50-year-old air force minister at the Defense Department, announced he had quit his post Tuesday because of "a casual acquaintance with a call girl and one or two of her friends."

Lambton, a father of six children, said photographs had been taken of himself and a girl and were peddled for sale to newspapers.

Lambton went into hiding. Then the attorney general's office said it had issued two summonses against him for possession of marijuana and pep pills.

Through his agent, Lambton quickly issued a new statement from "somewhere in Scotland," (See "Scandal")

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elliot L. Richardson, the Nixon administration's well-traveled trouble-shooter, received overwhelming Senate approval Wednesday to be the new attorney general. The action freed the special Watergate prosecutor to begin business officially.

Richardson's confirmation, by a vote of 82 to 3, gave him his third top Cabinet post under Nixon. Richardson has been secretary of Health, Education and Welfare and secretary of Defense. He also served as undersecretary of State.

Earlier in the day, Richardson had been approved unanimously by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

His Senate approval amounts to a green light for Archibald Cox, the man named by Richardson as special Watergate prosecutor. As one of his first acts, Cox had planned a meeting with the regular prosecutors who have been pursuing the Watergate case for 11 months.

On Wednesday morning, President Nixon met with Republican congressional leaders at the White House and sought to reassure them personally that he had no involvement in the web of Watergate scandals.

The 22 GOP congressmen and senators responded with a standing ovation. But Senate (Turn To Page 26) (See "Okays")

Lawyer Alch: McCord Lied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The lawyer who represented James W. McCord Jr. at the Watergate trial testified Wednesday he never suggested that McCord should blame the CIA for the break-in at Democratic party headquarters.

In a 1½-hour appearance before the Senate Watergate committee, Gerald Alch angrily accused his former client of making allegations against him that are "in some instances completely false and in other instances have been twisted out of context into untruths" to serve some unknown purpose.

"What kind of man is this?" Alch said he asked himself after McCord accused him last Friday of pressing the CIA defense.

Alch outlined a relationship that ranged from effusive praise to unanswered telephone calls and finally replacement after McCord's conspiracy-burglary-wiretap conviction with attorney Bernard W. Fensterwald Jr., representing him.

And, with Fensterwald sitting a few rows behind him, Alch quoted Fensterwald as saying at one point:

"We're going after the President of the United States."

Earlier, the senators heard two former White House employees say they knew they were breaking the law by relaying executive clemency offers to McCord in the midst of the trial.

John J. Caulfield said he was spurred on in the belief that President Nixon had made the offer.

But Alch said he was totally ignorant of it if such offers were made.

House Blocks Veto Override

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon won a key test of his power Wednesday when the House upheld his veto of a bill that would have required Senate approval of his top budget aides.

The vote to override the veto was 236 to 178, or 40 short of the two-thirds majority needed to force the bill into law.

Those voting to sustain Nixon included 167 Republicans, while 18 of their GOP colleagues joined 218 Democrats against the President.

The action came just a day after the Senate handed Nixon a six-vote defeat on the bill.

The legislation would have abolished the jobs of Director Roy Ash and Deputy Director Frederick Malek of the President's Office of Management and Budget, and would have promptly set up similar posts requiring the new step of Senate confirmation of presidential nominees.

Nixon denounced this as unconstitutional and a "back-door method" of getting around presidential authority to remove an officer he has appointed.

Congressional opponents of the bill said it would set a precedent whereby Congress would remove executive officers by means other than impeachment by the House and conviction by the Senate.

But the bill's supporters claimed the office has become a powerful one with a chief role in impounding money approved by Congress.

A major reason why enactment was sought, backers agreed, was to enable Ash to be questioned about his activities as head of Litton Industries, a conglomerate with millions in federal military contracts. Opponents of the bill termed it an attempt to "get Ash, to axe Ash."

Rep. Frank Horton, R-N.Y., without mentioning Watergate by name, told the House during floor debate that action was being taken "in an atmosphere where there is great and justified public concern about the use and abuse of power."

Equipment, Crew Get It Together

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Parts and crew for the first space salvage mission came together here Wednesday as the countdown moved smoothly toward a Friday launch of the trouble-shooting Skylab 1 astronauts.

Astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz passed a launch-minus-two days medical examination and then received briefings on the repair job they will try to do on the crippled Skylab space station, orbiting 272 miles above the earth.

Tools, materials and improvised sunshades designed to rescue the overheated Skylab from failure began arriving at Cape Kennedy from the space agency's other centers.

The star device of the space patch job is an umbrella-shaped shade developed at the Johnson Space Center near Houston. Experts believe the shiny aluminum and orange parasol will block enough of the sun's heat from the Skylab to permit a full 28-day mission by Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz.

Countdown on the Saturn 1B Rocket which will drill the astronauts into orbit toward Skylab, started on time Wednesday morning and proceeded smoothly.

Launch is scheduled for 9 a.m. EDT Friday.

Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz have been in almost constant training for the salvage procedures since Skylab developed problems only seconds after its launch May 14 when a protective heat shield ripped away.

The astronauts trained in a water tank at the Marshall Space Flight Center near Huntsville, Ala., Tuesday and then flew to Cape Kennedy to await launch.

Technicians began packing the Apollo spacecraft with tools and equipment for the fix-it-up mission.

Editorial Comment

Political 'Dirty Tricks'

Detailed accounts leave little doubt that a variety of political "dirty tricks" were carried on against both Sen. Edmund S. Muskie and Sen. George McGovern during last year's presidential primaries. The question is: How seriously should one regard such campaign shenanigans?

Some argue for treating actions of this kind rather lightly. They note that such tricks have always occurred in presidential campaigns, sometimes with malicious intent but at other times in a spirit of camaraderie among campaigners. In almost every campaign in recent history infiltration has occurred, has ultimately been discovered and has, for the most part, been enjoyed by all involved because the goal was not malicious.

There is a considerable jump from that, however, to the alleged campaign lies which often crop up. A recent example of this occurred in the 1968 McCarthy-Kennedy campaigns in Oregon and California, in which the McCarthy camp charged the Kennedy forces with a distortion of McCarthy's voting record.

It's Still 'Spare Rod, Spoil Child'

The flogging of wives and sailors has been banned for a hundred years. Mental hospitals and prisons prohibit the physical punishment of their inmates.

"But corporal punishment in the schools remains as much a part of the American way as the 'I speak for Democracy' contest or the Thanksgiving pageant."

So claims Diare Divoky, writing in the new magazine, Learning. The schools, she says, are the last institution in our society in which beating is legal, and support for it is shared by teachers, administrators and parents alike.

In a 1969 survey of the National Education Association, for example, 65 per cent of the elementary schoolteachers and 55 per cent of the secondary schoolteachers polled favored "judicious use" of bodily punishment.

A survey by Grade Teachers magazine found that nearly half the respondents had used corporal punishment during the preceding school year; 20 per cent had employed it more than five times.

After schools in Pittsburgh prohibited spanking, 73 per cent of the system's teachers signed a petition asking the ban be lifted.

A 1971 poll of school administrators by Nation's Schools magazine found that corporal punishment was applied in 74 per cent of the responding districts and that 64 per cent of the ord. And there is a quantum jump in moving from such tactics to outright, sustained and very serious campaign sabotage such as seems to have been directed against the McGovern and Muskie campaigns.

To argue that either one lost the presidential race because of such tactics would be absurd; too many other important factors were involved. The danger, rather, lies in this becoming accepted as a political way of life. If one side does it, the other side will feel less compunction about responding in kind, and so on.

One heartening element in the recent disclosures is that those so far linked to the dirty tricks campaigning have, by and large, been amateurs to the political process, hired by persons recently shoved into the national political limelight. The pervasiveness of these reprehensible tactics may thus turn out to be a one-shot phenomenon that befell the 1972 campaign, not to be repeated. Public revulsion may assure that it will not happen again. We shall see.

administrators felt that it was "an effective educational instrument in assuring discipline."

Parents may favor corporal punishment even more than teachers, says Miss Divoky. In a 1970 Gallup poll, 62 per cent of the parents of public school students wanted spanking in the schools.

She quotes a report by the American Civil Liberties Union:

"As the situation now stands, corporal punishment may be visited upon schoolchildren for the 'crime' of talking without permission or not dressing for gym, but not upon felons convicted of such major crimes as rape, armed robbery or murder and who have, in fact, received the benefit of due process in the courts."

Despite a few successful suits brought by students or parents against teachers who administered damaging beatings, the courts have not begun to accept the argument that due process or the Eighth Amendment protection against cruel and unusual punishment applies to schoolchildren.

"In the year 1973," says Miss Divoky, "corporal punishment is alive and well in an astounding number of U.S. schools and will probably remain so until judges, teachers, parents, administrators and the public at large decide that society has finally become civilized enough to drop child beating from its prescribed curriculum."

Nixon Simply Hunkering Down To Ride Out Storm

By EUGENE V. RISHER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — During the most severe crisis of his two and a half decades of public life, President Nixon has been uncharacteristically silent.

While his White House staff has crumbled amid tales of political intrigue, while two of his former cabinet officers have been indicted for criminal offenses and while attempts to corrupt the courts, the electoral process, the CIA, the FBI and the SEC has been unfolding over the past several weeks, Nixon has simply hunkered down to ride out the storm.

Inflation is soaring at its highest rate in a generation. The stock market has taken its sharpest drop in more than two years. And the peace in Southeast Asia that took so many lives and dollars to achieve appears to be disintegrating before his eyes.

Congress now appears to be ready for the first time in the decade of American military involvement in Southeast Asia to cut off funds for prosecuting the war.

Brezhnev Visit Vital

While the President's chief envoy, Henry A. Kissinger, was leaving for Paris to negotiate with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho on ways to save the crumbling peace last week, the Senate Appropriations committee followed earlier House action by voting 24-0 to cut off money for U.S. bombing in Cambodia.

A White House protest against this weakening of the President's bargaining position while negotiations are underway — an appeal that always worked in the past — was hardly audible above the din of Watergate.

The upcoming visit of Soviet party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev holds the potential for producing some of the major foreign policy successes of the Nixon Presidency. But even his friends are now wondering if the President's prestige has been eroded so severely that he will have to grant too many concessions in the bargaining.

Since the broader dimensions of the Watergate scandal broke, Nixon has made two carefully worded statements. On April 17, he announced that as a result of "serious charges" which came to his attention on March 21 he had launched a new investigation. "Real progress" had been made in finding the truth, he said.

Dramatic Move Foreseen

On April 30 after three of his top aides and Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst had resigned, he appeared on television and promised there would be no whitewash at the White House. He said he was moving Elliot L. Richardson from the Pentagon to the Justice Department to take charge of the investigation and told the American people in the clearest terms yet that he personally had no part in the wrongdoing.

Speculative articles have appeared recently suggesting the President is planning some sweeping, dramatic move aimed at instantly reversing the deterioration of his political stature and allowing him to seize the initiative from his opponents.

But White House advisers willing to talk do not see this in the books. They believe the President plans to ride out the turbulence, let the judicial mill slowly grind away and the facts be exposed and bank on the belief that the major thrust of his domestic and foreign policies still find a favorable response among most Americans.

They see the process of picking up the pieces of his shattered Administration as a slow and painful exercise and do not dispute the judgment that the White House will never again be as powerful as it was under Nixon during the first three months of 1973.

Rub-A-Dub-Dub, We're All In The Same Tub

'New Federalism' Of Nixon No Dice

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Neither the low tones of Watergate nor the high tones from President Nixon on the decentralizing "new federalism" seem likely to halt the flow of power to Washington — with perhaps still more for the White House which already thought to have too much.

Before Watergate dampened all other news, U.S. lawmakers talked soberly — if only half-convincingly — of reasserting their acknowledged but inadequately used power over the national purse. The President's impoundments of money and cutbacks of some social programs enraged many.

In theory, the Watergate mess, illustrating the perils of concentrated power secretly employed, should strengthen the hand and resolve of Congress. You'd never guess it had, however, by listening to a cluster of politicians and scholars gathered recently at the Woodrow Wilson Center to discuss the "new federalism" under sponsorship of the National Journal.

Waspish Alexander Bickel, well known Yale law professor, cut the argument over Congress to its soft core when he described it as "the hope of the past."

He suggested that earlier American appraisers had misconceived the power potential in Congress as a co-equal branch of government. In fact if not in intent, the Constitution gives superior weight to the presidency and its bureaucracy.

First in wartime and then eras of peace, the reality sank home. Presidents cut a wide discretionary swath, sometimes cautiously, but sometimes arbitrarily and even arrogantly. Congress yielded, and steadily lost will even where it still in theory retained power.

Many Americans troubled at the centralization of authority in Washington tend more and more to see it as mostly a presidential thing. Much of it clearly is. Yet Bickel reminds us that the U.S. Supreme Court long has been a huge force for nationalizing power in this country.

Said the professor: "Every court decision which expands human rights expands the federal, centralizing power."

He could see nothing beyond the grasp of the national government today, with a compliant or Willow Congress bowled over by a muscle-flexing White House. He added:

"The commerce clause (the Constitution's famed area of widest latitude) reaches as far as human ingenuity can go to accomplish any ends."

Thus equipped, the national government (meaning of course mostly the president and the high court) is constantly tempted to stretch its mandate to new fields, to act on what Bickel calls "moral imperatives" to do more and more.

If I heard him straight, self-restraint is the hope of the future. He put it in a kind of subtle, back-handed English from the college round table, but the message is clear:

"A certain economy of moral imperatives is needed to contain the centralizing impulses of the national government."

That struck me as a plea to the people not to ask for too much, not in the short range anyway, in peril that an overreaching government may become grossly overbearing.

Ann Landers:

Dislikes Explanation Offered For Having Large Families

Dear Ann Landers: I was not only surprised but disappointed when I read your statement that people in this day and age who have extremely large families are "trying to prove something."

What do you consider an "extremely large family"? Ten children? Eight? Six? Since you had only one child, maybe you think TWO is "extremely large."

And how nice of you to have offered an explanation for those of us who have "extremely large" families. My husband and I appreciated that very much. You see, we didn't know why we had all these kids. Actually, we thought we loved children, but according to you, that wasn't the reason at all.

I feel you owe an apology to the countless readers who look to you for moral support and guidance and good common sense. You let us down badly with that one.—Wichita Parents Who Love Them All

Dear Parents: You are right. My typewriter got ahead of my brain when I pounded out that statement and I am sorry. My apologies to all parents of large families who "love them all."

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of the following situation? Alice was married to Bob for 18 years. They had three children. Bob became involved with a young girl in his office. He divorced Alice in Mexico and married the girl. That marriage lasted two years. The girl divorced Bob for another man. (Younger.) The following year Bob married another young bird. He died three months later of a heart attack.

Alice now refers to herself as "a widow." I'd like your comment.—Watching from the Sidelines

Last night I said I'd be home at 10:30. It so happened I met some people and didn't get home until 1:30. She yelled for 30 minutes. I feel that a 23-year-old girl shouldn't need to report to her mother if she decides to change her schedule. If you agree with me, please print this letter.—Distressed in Chicago

Dear Chic: A 23-year-old girl should not need to report to her mother. But she SHOULD know how to use a telephone. What I am suggesting is that you should have been considerate enough to let your mother know when you changed your plans—especially since she is obviously a worrier from way back. Some young adults (both male and female) want the comforts of mama's home and the freedom of living in a hotel, and it just won't work.

How Can You Get There From Here? By Bus, Probably

"Attention westbound passengers: The coach is now leaving for Mandan, Hebron, Dickinson, Beach, Wibaux, Terry, Miles City, Forsyth, Billings, Bozeman, Butte... (deep breath)... last call."

By TOM TIEDE

(First of Two Parts)
BISMARCK, N.D. (NEA) — Bad weather has grounded all planes west. Amtrak isn't due for another two days. Auto rental prices all but prohibit that consideration. What's a traveler to do? What a majority of them have been doing in America for decades—take a bus.

Four hundred million people can't be wrong. That's how many are expected to buy intercity bus tickets this year in the United States. While popular national concern will no doubt wrestle with such transportation problems as railroad deficits and the morality of airline hostesses, buses will roll merrily, anonymously, regularly, whole-somely and even profitably along over 25 billion passenger miles.

Only the automobile will carry more people to more places. Doubtless, some of the bus riders will take coaches out of necessity. They simply have no other way to go. The National Association of Motor Bus Owners (NAMBO) reports the country's 23,000 intercity buses routinely stop at 13,500 communities which have no other form of mass transportation. Thus if a citizen must get from Washburn, N.D., to Coal Harbor in the same state, he must own a car, have strong legs, hitchhike, go by hot air balloon—or take a bus.

Industry officials like to believe the majority of bus passengers would go by coach even with viable alternatives. They say air travel is hectic and railroads absurd. And many passengers agree. Said one lady recently on the westbound Super Scenic Cruiser: "I'm 63 years old and I've never been further off the ground than the attic of my home. You couldn't get me in a plane to meet Kirk Douglas."

Even auto transportation, say bus advocates, has lost its charm. "Fifty thousand people are killed in them every year," sighs one Greyhound executive. As of now, more than 90 per cent of all travel in the nation is still by private car, but bus-ers hope that time and circumstances will reduce the figure.

Besides highway dangers, there is now the pollution crisis ("People who drive a lot deserve a kick in the gas," grump environmentalists), the threat of fuel shortages and bumper-to-bumper traffic. Says Greyhound: "All of this is convincing more and more people to simply leave the driving to us."

Indeed, there is much to be said for doing just that. In recent years motor coach travel has improved admirably. No reservations are necessary ("We'll bring out another bus for overflow passengers," says a Greyhound agent). No security checks ("I never worry about hijackers," says one driver here, "where could I take them—Minot?"). Moreover, today's modern buses have done away with much of the discomforts of yore. Sixteen wheels cushion the ride. On board lavatories have solved the "bouncing bladder blues." Some of the newest buses by Greyhound have hostesses, earphones for radio listening and snack bars—"everything," says a wag, "but dancing bears."

But the best thing about bus travel, say the advocates, is the cost. According to a 1972 study by the Department of Transportation, intercity bus fares were 3.81 cents a mile, compared with 4 cents for trains 6 cents for planes and a whopping 13.55 cents for automobiles. A Washington to New York bus trip, thus, cost $11.20 (in 1972) while the trip by train can be up to $27 (depending on class), the trip by air is $26, and the trip by auto is $30 at least, "providing," says a smiling bus driver, "you don't get a flat, have the radiator boil over, or lose an axle."

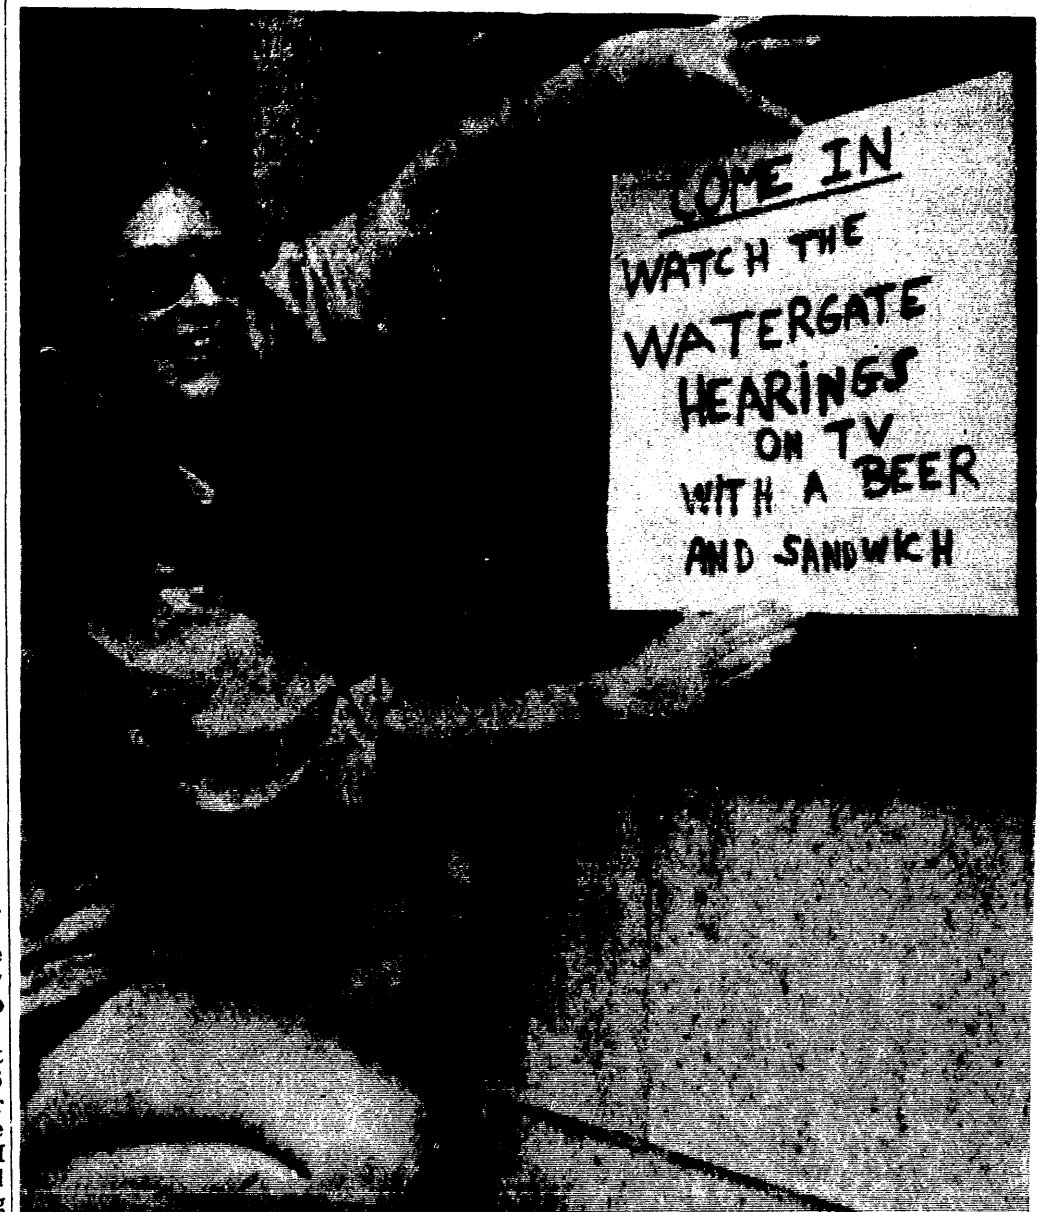

Yet if the bus business chortles at the drawbacks of other forms of mass locomotion, it does not chortle loudly. Motor coach travel has its problems, too. Intercity lines are down 150 (to a current total of about 1,000) in the last decade. Operating expenses have risen from $494 million in 1961 to $852 million in 1971. Last year, according to Charles Webb, president of NAMBO, profit for the nation's intercity lines ($57 million) was 10 per cent less than the $64 million earned the year before.

Webb and others blame much of the revenue decline on "un-

THERE ARE MORE exciting places in the world than bus depots. The 48th passenger took it. And so it is. Despite drawbacks, hundreds of millions do the same. Bus travel may be slow (15 hours from Bismarck to Butte vs. three hours by air); it may also be a bit dingy. But it is one of the safest (0.05 deaths per million passenger miles vs. 2.10 for autos), the cheapest and the handiest. "I met my wife on a bus," said one passenger disembarking here, stretching his back and waiting for his bags, "otherwise, I think the damn things are fine."

"Well," said West philosophically, "I guess the only good reason I had for my jack of hearts lead was that it was right there in my hand."

After that sterling start, East and West had little trouble letting South make his two-diamond contract.

East cashed his ace and king of hearts and gave his partner a ruff.

West returned the three of clubs. A low club was played from dummy and East won with the king. A club return by East would have left South one trick short but East led his last heart. West ruffed and dummy over-ruffed. South drew trumps; knocked out the ace of spades and later discarded a club on one of dummy's spades.

South couldn't resist the impulse to gloat. "Against defenders like you I can afford to make lousy overcalls," was his comment.

This annoyed West. He replied, "Against bidders like you I can afford to defend badly. If you had just kept out of the bidding we would almost surely have been set at some contract or other. You scored plus 90 for your two diamonds. It won't be much of a score for you."

West's last remark was right to the point. The game was match point duplicate and while South would have got zero for down one he only got two points out of 12 for making his contract.

What's In A Mint Letter?

The Counterfeit and Unauthorized Coin section of the "Encyclopedia of U.S. Coins" does not show the 1913 Barber-head dime with a laid on mint letter "S" which raises its value from $28 to about $196 in uncirculated condition. This is certainly not a new attempt at creating a phony 1913-S dime, but is one of the few times more than one specimen has been found at one time in two or three different collections.

Uncirculated 1913 Barber-head dimes are available for the asking at anything from $15 to $18, although the Red Book shows a top value of $25. By skillfully applying the mint letter "S" for San Francisco, the selling price is immediately increased to $190 for an average uncirculated specimen, or $225 for a more perfect specimen.

With today's technical know-how, such alterations are beginning to pop up all over the country and in quantities that stagger the imagination. For that reason, any purchase of a high-value coin strictly because of a mint mark should be supported by all of the certification possible. Please do not accept the word of the dealer without some evidence that his word is based on recognized expertise in the field of altered and counterfeit coinage.

Oddly enough, few dealers and fewer collectors are experienced in detecting "fakes." True, they are beginning to learn, but their learning should not be at the customer's expense. There are authentication services available for a fee determined on a percentage of the market value of the coin in question. And most dealers will either send the coin to one of these service centers at the request of the buyer, or provide the buyer with the address and proper procedure for submitting a coin for verification.

However, anyone with a copy of the second printing, revised edition of the "Encyclopedia of U.S. Coins," will be able to detect most fakes and forgeries, and some of the more obvious alterations, after studying Chapter IX, "Counterfeit and Unauthorized Coins," and Chapter XI, "Verification Tests." After which, of course, it would be advisable to have someone double-check your findings until you are absolutely sure each step has been executed correctly.

Counterfeiters have been known to be taken in by their own "fakery" and if an alteration is done well, it may be extremely difficult for even an expert to detect.

Chandlerville Unit Members To Visit Pekin

CHANDLERVILLE — The Chandlerville Home Extension Unit met May 10th at the home of Mrs. Roy Watkins, with Mrs. Frank Kirchner co-hostess. Chairman Mrs. Hershel Clark opened with a poem.

Roll was answered by 12 members. Mrs. Roy Watkins read minutes and the treasurer's report.

accomplished absolutely nothing to date, and as a result the entire committee is being replaced by an "Administration" to be headed by an "Administrator" appointed by the President with consent of the Senate. The new administrator will serve at the pleasure of the President with a salary fixed at level III of the Executive Schedule. He will have one deputy and a five-member staff all on payroll, but they will have to work closely with a 25-member "Advisory Board," also appointed by the President but compensated only for travel and per diem expenses.

Mrs. Harold Wessel gave a report for the membership committee. Dues are collectable at this. The penny collection was received.

A friendship card was signed to be mailed to Mrs. Harrison Glick, recently dismissed from the hospital.

Miss Marilyn Schroeder announced the bus trip to Pekin Mall June 4th at $3.50 per ticket, reservations to be made by May 25th. This is a county-wide project.

The Cass County Home Economics Extension Advisor gave the major lesson on Women's Lib and the Child.

The minor lesson, The Non-Food Dollar, was read by Mrs. Verna Gurnsey. Mrs. Roy Watkins read an article.

Recreation by Mrs. George Stuhmer was a crossword puzzle, the prize won by Miss Schroeder.

The hostesses served delicious refreshments. Next meeting will be changed date to June 15th at the home of Mrs. Ruby Force with Mrs. Barton McClard assisting.

Friday, the week's sixth day, was named after Freya, Scandinavian goddess of beauty and love.

The fashion accent for summer fun will go right to your head. The variety of youthful headwear covers every outdoor activity and gives just the right topping to every outfit. Getting a jump on the new outdoor looks is a mermaid from Florida's Weeki-Wachee Springs swimming ballet. An ideal poolside choice is the head-hugging cap (left) of knitted celtagal by Veumont accented with looped ribbon trim. Giant cotton sunshades (right) by Merrymakers features a softly rippled brim for face-framing flattery.

Bids Accepted, Plans Discussed At New Berlin

NEW BERLIN — The board of education of New Berlin Community Unit School District 16 met in regular session Monday. After reading of the minutes and bills and payroll lists, they were approved.

A letter was read from Paul A. Keller, Superintendent of Education Service Region, Morgan county, indicating the hearing date of Marr, Jacobs, and Patterson to petition 8.8 acres of land from the Waverly School District into the New Berlin School District has been scheduled for May 22 at 2 p.m. at the Morgan County Courthouse, Jacksonville. The New Berlin Board passed a resolution of no objection to the proposed addition of land to Unit District No. 16.

The board set the salary for Junior High School Flag Football coaching at $350 per year.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Joan Haas, Elementary Music Teacher, effective at the end of this school year.

A letter was read from the board of trustees, Curran Methodist church, requesting the bus shelter house be removed from the church site.

The board approved the proposal from Lincoln Land Community College that they conduct adult courses in the coming school year, using the facilities of the New Berlin School District.

A maintenance service survey was presented, but was not accepted. The board proposed that further survey be made on the heating control systems. Paul Smith and Associates, Loami, were low bidders on proposed sidewalks for $3,766.75 for approximately 3,965 square feet of work.

For bread and bread products, Interstate Brand Corporation submitted the low bid. Meadow Gold Dairy was the successful low bidder on milk and milk products for the coming school year.

In final action for the evening, the board approved a total of $13,786.92 teacher requests for capital outlay.

ROODHOUSE HAS MOTHERS DAY GUESTS IN HOMES

ROODHOUSE — Mother's Day guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Bess were their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Bess and family, Diverson; a daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Coats and their grandson, B. J. Admire, Elkville. Another daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. John Seibold, Granite City, were unable to be present since he was hospitalized and his wife was also recently hospitalized.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Bess drove to Granite City Monday where they brought their son-in-law, John Seibold, home from the hospital, and remained in their home in Granite City for the day.

Mother's Day visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Coon and family were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Coon, Elmwood.

On Mother's Day, Mr. and Mrs. Verne Drake, rural Roodhouse, had as visitors their children and grandchildren as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Drake and Timothy, Manchester; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ford and Mandy, Glasgow; Miss Penny Moore, Carrollton.

Mrs. Virginia Evans drove to Alexander Mother's Day and was accompanied from there by her mother, Mrs. Oral Keenan, to Jacksonville, where they attended her mother's church and ate at a restaurant in the same city.

FRED JOKISCH OF ASHLAND HURT IN FALL AT HOME

ASHLAND — An Ashland man, Fred Jokisch, is confined to Passavant hospital with injuries received from a fall down the basement steps of his home here.

Mrs. Jokisch had been working in the yard at the residence and found her husband when she re-entered the house. He was immediately taken to the hospital. The injuries included severe abrasions, laceration of one arm, etc.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Bisch Funeral Home for Henry W. Schuster, father of Mrs. Doyle Taylor, who passed away Monday at the Springfield hospital. Interment was made in Springfield.

Dr. and Mrs. R. O. Beades of Colorado Springs, Colorado, visited at the home of the former's brother, Dr. E. L. Beades, and wife. They attended Wesleyan Alumni activities in Bloomington Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Ronald (Jessie) Lockard and Mrs. Billy (Eloise) Quinley, who have been surgical patients at the Memorial Hospital, Springfield, have returned to their respective homes here.

Royal Gorge Bridge in Colorado is the world's highest, 1,053 feet above water.

City, County, State Rap With Routt At Workshop

The Illinois Department of Corrections, community services department, in cooperation with teachers at Routt High School, Father Ken Venvertloh and Father Paul Skelton, conducted an informative workshop last week at the school for members of the Junior class.

Discussed were drugs in school; youth and drugs, etc. skillfully handled by two resource persons, Al Harris and Miss Sherry Morgan, both ex-addicts now on the staff of Phoenix-7 Drug Center at Springfield.

Two periods of time were used in discussing Youth and the Law. The session was ably presented and rebutted by Robert Wallace of Morgan County Court Services and Probation office, and Sgt. Rene Lemme of the Jacksonville Police Department.

Members from the Department of Corrections cooperating were Marjorie Marr, District Supervisor; William Phillips, Regional Supervisor; Joe Madonia and Ed Riordan, community workers.

Such workshops are being held throughout the State to obtain information from youth to be used in workshops and seminars at the Governors' Conference to be held this October at Normal.

LED ZEPPELIN TO FLY IN NEW YORK (AP) — Led Zeppelin is going to have a summer rock tour in the United States. It is touted as being the most profitable tour in history. The gross is expected to be more than $3 million from 33 concerts in 30 cities.

In the United States during 1972, there were an estimated 56,300 motor-vehicle deaths. Capt. Juan Bautista de Anza in 1774 blazed the first overland trail from Sonora, Mex., to California.

Slow Mail Service Impairs Production Of Red Tape

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — The mail service is now so slow that it is impairing the production of red tape, depriving bureaucrats of papers to shuffle and useless forms to fill out in triplicate, the founder of the National Association of Professional Bureaucrats complained Monday.

James H. Boren, a State Department official for 10 years, took part in the kickoff of "Red Tape Week" at Cal State Long Beach.

He praised the bureaucrats of the nation "diligently carrying out their tasks in devotion to the 'beauty of dynamic inaction-of' 'yes, but-isms' and forthright twiddlisms ... there is a certain aesthetic to red tape that binds our country together."

His association is not opposed to cutting red tape, he said, so long as it is cut lengthwise.

And while his group usually supports "orchestrated delay" on principle, the mail service has carried a good thing too far, he said.

"My studies showed such an interdiction of the orderly flow of mail under the new postal system that it was interfering with the bureaucrats obtaining reports of forms and papers with which they meet their shufflistic responsibilities," Boren said.

The Pony Express should be revived, he said, arguing that he had mailed a letter to Philadelphia from Washington, then climbed on a horse and beat the letter to its destination.

He said he has developed a "red tape machine" from a motor and paper clips that "like Washington, moves in many directions simultaneously and results in little except motion." "Red Tape Week" is the creation of a group of students and faculty members trying to make the point that paperwork at Cal State Long Beach has gotten out of hand.

Britain, U.S. Trade Data On Laser Death Ray

LONDON (AP) — The British government is exchanging information with the United States on a laser "death ray" both nations are developing to destroy aircraft and missiles at long range, the Defense Ministry said Tuesday.

A spokesman said work on a powerful, long-range laser gun has been going on for some time. Scientific sources said the gun being developed has a range of 70 miles and ultimately can be mounted in aircraft. But they said the first tests will probably take place on shipboard because of the electrical power needed.

A laser produces a beam of intense light waves concentrated along a very narrow line rather than scattering as from a normal light source. Since light travels at 186,000 miles a second, a laser weapon's beam would reach its target instantly.

WORLD TRADE CENTER EXHIBITS TAPESTRIES

NEW YORK (AP) — The first of a series of World Trade Center international cultural exhibitions is the largest group showing of contemporary Aubusson tapestries ever exhibited in the United States.

Some 50 tapestries are by 27 leading international artists, including Alexander Calder, Sonia Delaunay, Camille Hilaire, Le Corbusier, Man Ray, Victor Vasarely and Ossip Zadkine.

Ranging in size from three by four feet to seven by 12 feet, the tapestries are contemporary examples of traditional 13th and 14th century hand-wearing techniques.

Griggsville Purchases New School Equipment

The board of education of Griggsville Community School Unit No. 4 met in the school office, May 17. All members were present.

The book rental account was discussed. It was decided to keep the book rental fee the same for 1973-74 with every effort being made to collect. The fee will remain at $4 for kindergarten, $10 for elementary and $10 for high school with additional $2 lab fees.

Due to increased costs, the hot lunch price of meals will be increased from 35 cents to 40 cents. The State Visitation report for the hot lunch program was read and approved.

Due to high school final exams and the lower grade picnic, dismissals at 2:30 p.m. were approved for Wednesday, May 23 and Thursday, May 24.

The following equipment was approved for 1973-74: one IBM electric typewriter for the business department, one electric sewing machine for the home economics department, one dozen high school classroom chairs, one dozen first grade chairs, and twenty four desks and chairs for one of the middle elementary rooms.

Transportation Contract
The transportation contract was discussed. The rates were increased two cents per mile for the buses and carryall. All transportation is contracted in Unit 4 with Marshall Roberts.

The request for funds to operate the summer session under Title I was approved and signed. Summer school will be during the month of June for students in grades one through four needing extra help in language arts and arithmetic. It will begin on Monday, June 4, and will be from 9 a.m. until 12 noon each day.

The building committee gave their report and recommended that all outside wood trim be scraped and painted where needed. Some inside painting and plumbing recommendations were also approved. Approximately one-half of the Western Waterproofing Company bid for tuckpointing was accepted.

The contract for Consumer Education was approved and signed. Consumer Education is taught one semester as an elective course and part of the expenses are reimbursable through the State Board of Vocational Education.

Tennis to Begin
For 1973-74, tennis was approved as an interscholastic sport in the high school for both boys and girls. Mrs. Henry Aubrey will coach the teams. This sport was started in the spring of 1973; previously, it was an intramural program in physical education.

Equipment for physical education was discussed. Approval was given to purchase a new balance beam and a new Nissan folding trampoline. The old trampoline will be sold for $175 or the highest bid. Anyone who is interested should contact the school office. The process of the physical education show will be used for this new equipment.

The building and site improvement committee recommended the following: New furniture in the lounge, a light between the high school building and Nichol Gym, removing the bleachers from the old gym, remodeling in the chemistry lab, home economics kitchen and science classrooms; as well as different facilities for the band. Due to economics, all could not be approved even though the board felt they were necessary and should carry over another year.

The board decided there would be no charge for the lumber in the old bleachers, if anyone would remove them and clean up what remained.

Junior College
Two junior college charge-backs were presented. They were accepted if permitted by law. The way the law is now, all parts of the state will become part of a junior college district after July 1. Districts not petitioning for annexation before this date will be placed in a junior college district by the State Junior College Board. All graduates will then go to this junior college. They may still go to others, but would have to pay full tuition.

The PIA playground equipment committee reported that they had raised sufficient money for the purchase of new equipment on the playground. They did ask for assistance in assembling and placing them.

LIBRARY STORY HOUR ENDS IN MT. STERLING

MT. STERLING—On Wednesday, May 23, the Pre-School Story Hour program at the Mt. Sterling City Library will come to a close. The program director, Mrs. John Miley, has been holding sessions each Wednesday with the children, having story reading, activities, learning songs, games, etc. Mrs. Miley will begin a new class in the fall. This last session on Wednesday, May 23, the parents are invited to come to see the children and to view what they have learned. One is held in the morning, and one in the afternoon.

DO-IT-YOURSELF

Sanding O.K. Calls For Care

By MR. FIX

There's many a home or apartment that's been furnished with secondhand furniture or unfinished furniture that was turned into a finished piece by the owner.

Whether it's an old piece of furniture that has been stripped clean of the old finish or a brand new, smooth but unfinished piece of furniture, it still needs sanding before you apply anything to it.

The way you use sandpaper determines how successful your finishing or refinishing project turns out. This is especially true with the clear finishes—varnish, shellac, lacquer.

In fact, any of them will gleam on a properly sanded surface. But you can buy the most expensive finish available and if your sanding has been careless it will magnify every flaw, scratch and rough spot. Any rough spot will immediately come through darker than a smooth surface.

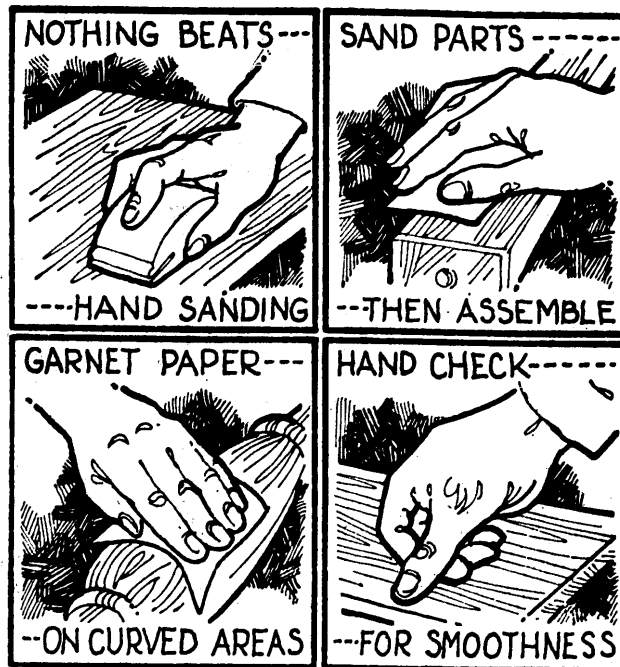

Power sanding has become popular, but power sanders can be tricky and if not used properly can ruin a job. Nothing really beats handsanding. When you sand by hand, you are always in control of the job. It isn't going to get away from you.

The sanding disc mounted on an electric drill is out so far as fine furniture finishes are concerned. The circular motion of the sanding disc across the grain and the first rule in sanding is to sand with the grain.

The power sander that sands in a straight line is the only thing to use, but it needs a light touch. Keep in one place too long or apply too much pressure and it will take off more than necessary.

In hand-sanding, wrap a piece of sandpaper partially around a block of wood. Make a block that will fix the hand comfortably.

The general rule is to start with the coarsest sandpaper and work up to the fine. Actually, on most projects you will start with a medium grit.

If you are building the furniture or assembling the unfinished furniture, sand individual wood parts before assembling. If you wait until you have put everything together you may find some spots too hard to reach.

Garnet or aluminum oxide paper is generally used. Grades may vary with some manufacturers but general O-grade is medium, 1 or 2 coarse or very coarse, 3-0 is a fine paper.

Remember to stay with the grain. If you find yourself sanding an area where two pieces come together but with the grain running differently in each, then carefully sand so that you don't cross over onto the other piece.

When you have carved or curved areas to sand, use garnet paper. This is flexible but strong and can bend around curves and it won't crack. Stop occasionally and check for smoothness with your hand. Touch is the best test. If you feel any roughness, keep sanding.

Stamps In The News

By SYD KRONISH

AP Newsfeatures

The colonial post rider — the man who delivered the mail to the early settlers of America — is honored on a new U.S. commemorative stamp to be issued June 22 at Rochester, N.Y. The issuance coincides with a meeting of the Society of Philatelic Americans being held in that city.

The 8-center is the third in a series of four stamps called "The Rise of the Spirit of Independence" in celebration of the Bicentennial of the American Revolution. This series of adhesives points to the role communications played in spurring the Revolution.

The post riders being hailed carried letters on a 500-mile round trip from New York to Boston. They were expected to complete one round trip a month. Early accounts of these mail journeys noted that the carrier "received congratulations on the success of his journey."

Today's critics of the U.S. Postal Service have commented that "things have changed little in the last 250 years."

Collectors desiring first-day cancellations should address their outside envelopes to: "Post Rider Stamp, Postmaster, Rochester, N.Y. 14601." Enclose the proper remittance in money order or certified check and mail no later than June 22.

The United Nations Volunteers Program — the creation of a corps of men and women who give their services without financial benefit — is being given a philatelic tribute with the issuance of a new U.N. stamp in three denominations.

To qualify for these positions in far-flung countries of the world, the U.N. Volunteers must be over 21, and meet the health standards as well as have the educational and technical background for the post requested. The program, says its benefactors, is largely intended to encourage the participation of the younger generation in the cause of development.

The design of the new stamp features a series of compartments in the form of a honeycomb. Each contains a different symbol — such as justice, health, education — surrounding the United Nations seal. The values are 8 cents, 21 cents and 80 Swiss francs.

Four new stamps depicting paintings by Frances Hodgkins have been issued by New Zealand. One stamp shows "Maori Woman and Child." Another illustrates "The Hill." Both works are now in the National Gallery in Wellington. A third bears a painting entitled "Barn in Picardy" and the fourth is an abstract called "Self Portrait Still Life."

The Republic of Indonesia hailed the 25th anniversary of the World Health Organization by issuing a new stamp of simple design, according to the World Wide Philatelic Agency. Featured on the adhesive is a silhouetted and simplified human figure. The inscription reads "25th anniversary WHO 1973." The U.N. symbol appears in the upper right corner.

Scott Publications has revised 54 of its popular stamp albums so that each stamp would have an identifying number of the Scott Standard Postage Stamp Catalog.

Albums currently available with Scott numbers include all the titles in the expensive "Hingeless" series.

The latest edition of the Minikus Stamp Journal deserves plaudits for its beautiful cover which features the six new Israeli stamps based on Marc Chagall's stained-glass windows designed for the Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Center Synagogue in Jerusalem.

There are 12 windows but the remaining six will be depicted on Israeli stamps to be issued next year. Each of the jeweled windows measures 11½ feet in height and 8 feet in width.

To go with the Chagall cover is the lead article which dwells on the stamps of Israel as it celebrates its 25th anniversary of statehood. The story is by Moïse Cohen, director of philatelic services for Israel's Ministry of Communications. He is the only man to hold this position since the founding of the country a quarter of a century ago.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Fast Heart Rate What Is Sinus Tachycardia?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb — Could you write about the diagnosis referred to as "sinus tachycardia" dealing with the heart. Is this diagnosis damaging to the heart? Is there a treatment for it? etc.

Dear Reader — Doctors use terms to classify different diseases and even different functions of the body. Heart specialists refer to the normal beating mechanism of the heart at its normal rate, between 60 and 100, as normal sinus rhythm. That is what most of us have when we are resting quietly and aren't anxious, drinking too much coffee, smoking too many cigarettes or overly excited about a football game. When the normal heart beating mechanism speeds up so that the rate is over 100 per minute it is called sinus tachycardia.

Its real significance depends on its cause. If it is an indication of poor physical condition, one should do something about that problem. If it is from cigarettes and coffee, the answer is obvious. If it is from anxiety, why then one should find out what is producing the anxiety and deal with the basic problem. A fast heart rate is sometimes an indication of an overactive thyroid.

A fast heart rate is just a symptom like an elevated body temperature. If you exercise a little bit so that you speed up your heart, you'll have it! And if you have the usual functions for a person in reasonably good physical condition, when you rest, it should disappear. Incidentally, some people have "sinus tachycardia" just because of seeing the doctor. Dear Dr. Lamb — I am 24 and have one child which my doctor delivered by Cesarean section. I had X rays which my doctor said showed a pelvis too small for a nine pound breech baby to pass through. I didn't have time to give it much thought since I went into labor that same day. I know that you are not to wait until labor begins before a section but my water had broken and my contractions had started coming at about four minutes apart, but they almost sopted in a couple of hours.

Now that you know a little something about the problem, would you please give me the straight facts about a section. What are the do's and don'ts that make a doctor do such surgery?

Dear Reader — Perhaps the common good medical indication for Cesarean section is when a normal birth cannot be accomplished through the bony pelvic birth canal. Some women have a small pelvis and measurements accomplished early in pregnancy should identify this problem in most instances.

Once a woman has had a Cesarean section many obstetricians then feel that all subsequent pregnancies should also be delivered by Cesarean. The concern here is that the scar from the previous incision in the uterus might rupture during the forceful contractions of normal labor.

You are correct in saying that it is preferable to do the section before the water has broken and before significant contractions have started. The nature of pregnancy and labor, being what it is, is not too surprising that every once in awhile labor gets well under way or even the water breaks before the woman is able to get to the hospital for operative delivery.

William Harvey, an English physician, discovered the circulation of blood in 1628.

Sino-Soviet Conflict Deeper But Less Likely To Explode

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Sino-Soviet conflict has grown deeper in the last four years but is less likely to explode into war, says Ambassador Marshall Green, the State Department's senior expert on Asia.

In an interview on the eve of his departure Tuesday for his new ambassadorial post in Australia, Green said the situation is less tense because the Chinese have withdrawn their forces from the Soviet frontier and the two sides are talking.

But, the former assistant secretary of state for East Asian affairs said, the conflict has grown deeper because almost every problem that arises between Moscow and Peking is seen as another grievance. He cited deepened Chinese suspicions of Soviet power buildups in Siberia and the increase of Soviet naval strength into the Indian Ocean.

Chinese opposition to United Nations membership for Bangladesh and the Chinese arms alliance with Pakistan in that country's conflict with India have deepened Russian suspicions, Green said.

But both big powers are less than enthusiastic about the way Hanoi is pressing the war in Indochina, Green says.

He said the last year's North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam had not been welcomed by Peking and Moscow.

Green acknowledges that Cambodia is the weak point for peace in Indochina.

"I do think that if the Cambodian issue cannot be resolved it poses a real hazard to achieving peace or at least an ending of bloodshed," he said.

Green is flying to Tokyo, Korea and Hong Kong on his way to the Australian capital of Canberra. He will meet with government leaders at each point to discuss the Asian situation and compare views.

'Flood Control Projects' Effectiveness Displayed

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The real story of the Mississippi River spring floods was in the huge amount of damage prevented by control projects built the past 40 years, says a spokesman for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Louis D'Alba, chief of the corps' special studies branch at Chicago, Ill., said Tuesday that more than $350 million in damages was reported in preliminary studies.

"The real story of this great flood is not the damage done, but the massive destruction prevented by the Corps of Engineers' flood control projects in the Mississippi River Basin gradually built over the past 40 years," D'Alba told the quarterly meeting of the Upper Mississippi River Basin Commission.

He estimated damages averted in the basin, upstream from Cairo, Ill., exceeded $1.5 billion, and below that point, $6 billion.

In St. Louis, Mo., D'Alba added, control projects prevented about $343 million in flood damages—more than four times the federal cost of those projects.

The commission includes representatives of Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri and Wisconsin, as well as officials of several government agencies.

D'Alba, showing slides of flooded areas as he talked, told of an "ominous pattern" of rainfall that hit the Midwest starting last fall. He said in April the Mississippi Basin usually receives two to four inches of rainfall but that it ranged to more than 16 inches at Morgan City, La., and 13 inches at New Madrid, Mo., with lesser amounts farther north.

Upstream from Burlington, Iowa, the flood was less than the record inundation of 1927, but from that point southward to Cairo, it reached record stages.

The engineers' spokesman said damages occurred for the most part in unprotected areas or in those guarded by nonfederal levees. He said 150 homes were damaged moderately to heavily in south St. Louis along the River Des Peres when many persons removed sand bag protection prematurely despite warnings.

D'Alba said continuing improvements in the far-flung flood control plans, including those on major tributary basins, will provide better protection in the future.

Conference delegates also heard a preliminary report that called for extending the navigation season year-round on the Mississippi as far as Burlington. But it recommends no attempt to battle year-round the upper reaches to Minneapolis-St. Paul, which are locked with ice about 16 weeks of the year.

The report, presented by Alfred P. Behm of the Engineer Corps' water resources management division at Chicago, said the proposed extension of the navigation season would have less impact on wildlife and other environmental factors than alternate plans.

The favored plan, one of four considered, would cost an estimated $37 million and annual upkeep of $3 million. The major expense would be replacement of upstream gates at three locks, modifying 10 other locks and installing a bubbler system at two pools to keep them free of ice buildup.

White Hall City Jobs Shifted By New Mayor

WHITE HALL — The City Council met Tuesday night, May 15, with Mayor Edwin Ford presiding. He made two changes in City Department heads, replacing Police Chief Charles W. Downs with Vernon Dunlap; and Harold Smith, head of the street and alley departments with Paul Lawson. George E. Wyatt will assume duties as head of the gas & water department. It was decided May 31st, will be the last working day for Fred Price.

It was voted to raise the pay of salaried city personnel employed by police, gas, water and sewer of $50.00 with no overtime pay and deduction of one week vacation time.

Duties of mowing along city streets and water works premises, was added to those of the dog catcher.

Fire watch personnel and custodians on a salaried basis were voted a $5.00 monthly pay raise, those on an hourly basis, a ten cent per hour increase. Harold Smith was employed by street & alley department.

NEW FESTIVAL STARTS
SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — The Santa Fe Chamber Music Festival will begin this summer, with six concerts here and seven in other places.

One purpose is to bring music to areas where classical music is seldom played.

A July 6 concert in front of Window Rock, on the Navajo Reservation, is being sponsored by the Navajo Tribal Museum to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Navajo Tribal Council.

Artist Georgia O'Keeffe will attend the first concert June 24, at the Museum of New Mexico in Santa Fe, which will be dedicated to Pablo Casals, honorary president of the festival. Miss O'Keeffe is allowing a reproduction of her painting, "Music in Pink and Blue-1919" to be used on the cover of the programs.

Other cities where concerts will be held include Chiriquito, Albuquerque and Los Alamos.

Deschutes National Forest in central Oregon has more than 100 lakes and 300 miles of streams.

IC Displaying Picture Of Prominent Alums

Illinois College, which has contributed a vast number of alumni to public service in its 144-year history, has honored 21 of the most prominent in a display of framed pictures in Tanner Library.

Included in the pictures are governors, senators, congressmen, a U.S. Secretary of State, an assistant to presidents, and candidates for the U.S. presidency and vice presidency.

All pictures have attached brass plates which identify the alumnus and list his or her major accomplishments.

The display is expected to attract a large number of viewers during Commencement weekend May 24-27.

Those whose pictures have been hung in the library are:

J. LeRoy Adair, Congressman from Illinois, 1933-37. James M. Barnes, Congressman from Illinois, 1935-43; assistant to Presidents F. D. Roosevelt and Truman. ### LEVY ORATORIO SALUTES ISRAEL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marvin David Levy, whose "Mourning Becomes Electra" was commissioned by the Metropolitan Opera for its new house in Lincoln Center, has been commissioned by the National Symphony to write a large-scale oratorio.

It will be performed next fall at Kennedy Center as a salute to the 25th anniversary of Israel. Richard Tucker is to be soloist.

It is titled "Masada," which is the name of a mountain in the Holy Land where, in the year 70, a group of 900 revolutionaries, known as the Zealots, took over the summer palace of King Herod. The word has come to mean freedom for 20th century Israel.

PE HONORS FOR FRANKLIN GRAD OF QUINCY COLLEGE

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, MAY 24—Born today, you are a person of tremendous ambition who finds it difficult to see other people move ahead of you into the winners' circle. You have no objection to sharing plaudits with others, however; your only objection is to being left out altogether when the accolades are

MT. STERLING AIRMAN ARRIVES IN GERMANY

WIESBADEN, Germany—U.S. Air Force Sergeant Ronald L. Surratt, son of Mrs. Hazel Surratt, 310 E. Washington St., Mt. Sterling, has arrived for duty at Wiesbaden, Germany. Sergeant Surratt, a motion picture specialist, is assigned to a unit of the Military Air-being handed out. You realize that there can be only one "top spot" in any given enterprise and such a realization does much to take away the sting of coming in second or third. It is only being an "also ran" that you find absolutely intolerable.

You are not a person to keep secrets—your own or those of other people—and you would just as soon not be considered as anyone's confidante or confessor. You are a frank, open, straightforward individual who makes no effort to hide what he thinks. You feel that life is too complicated on its own without being made even more complex by anything that smacks of "cloak-and-dagger" attitudes or activities. What others see of you and what they hear from you is no more and no less than what there is.

Although you enjoy your family immensely, you are not one to allow family affairs to come between you and your career plans. You will do your utmost to provide for loved ones, to see them happy, healthy, and so on. But you are inclined to react unfavorably to those family emergencies which would take you away from the general direction of your work—at least until one of those emergencies makes you change your mind!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)—Efficiency is as important as talent today. No matter what your ability rating, without productivity you can say goodbye to any real gain.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)—Seek absolute control over your own situation on the home front. Keep in practice when it comes to giving exact directions to the young.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)—The heights you aspire to this morning may have sunk to lower levels by afternoon. Don't rely on another to do your work for you—even if he's willing.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)—A profitable day for the Virgo who is able to interpret signs of recent gain. Otherwise, you may miss an opportunity for wise speculation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)—Your impulse to speak your piece immediately may cause you difficulty this morning. Allow children the time they need to adjust to a new situation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)—Get plenty of exercise, both mental and physical today. These are days when you need to be at the peak of your performance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)—A domestic crisis this morning may cause you to speak out of turn. Young people are especially vulnerable in afternoon, so restrain any harsh words.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)—A fortunate morning for Capricorn. Take care, however, that you don't depend too heavily upon what you call "luck." Hard work will take you farther.

Find Out For Yourself Who Has The Low Food Prices

Because of its everyday low discount pricing policy Eagle encourages shopper comparison tests. The importance of these tests is obvious. The shopper can find out where their regular weekly grocery bill will be the lowest.

Eagle does not claim to be the lowest in price on every single item every day. Some stores run "loss leaders" or specials, items that are priced below cost to entice the shopper. The savings reflected in a food store's weekly "specials" are often offset by price increases on other products to make up for the loss. Eagle does not subscribe to this method of merchandising.

Eagle doesn't mislead the consumer with bait advertising, once-in awhile bargains or scattered "specials." The saving customers realize on just a few items on their average shopping list doesn't add up to the kind of discount savings Eagle offers every day on famous national brands, bonded meats, farm fresh produce, housewares, health and beauty needs and more.

Stamps, games and other gimmicks used by some stores are costly, and in order to pay for them, supermarkets must raise their prices above necessary levels. Eagle offers no special games, but rather assures its customers of every day savings that far exceed the value of stamps and other enticements.

A customer looks over the wide selection of health and beauty needs. Shoppers save not only on thousands of grocery items at Eagle, but on their non-food household and personal needs.

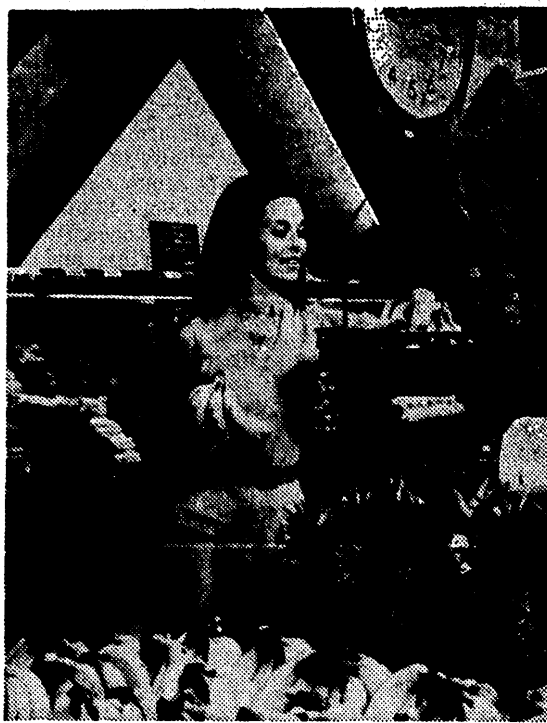

Some supermarkets have "specials" that must be purchased within a certain time limit, and the shopper might save only a few cents for this inconvenience. At Eagle, the savings are continuous every day, so the consumer can be assured of taking home savings anytime.

A manager in one of the Eagle Discount Supermarkets in this area said he firmly believes that the only true test of finding out where a customer's food bill will be lower is through comparison shopping; making a shopping test. He says that a newspaper ad can only give a small sampling of the prices of the merchandise in the store, and shouldn't really be used as the sole means of judging a store's prices.

"To find out for yourself where you can save the most on food," he stated, "you should make out your regular weekly grocery list, put down the prices from Eagle, and compare them to the prices from one or more other stores in town for everything on that list. Then add up the totals. We believe that you'll find Eagle's over-all prices to be lower. It's not the price of one or two specials that lowers your weekly food bill. It's the day-in, day-out savings on all your needs that make the difference. These are savings that you can count on every time you shop "The Eagle Way."

Eagle encourages shoppers to conduct their own comparison test, because they're confident that when it's all added up at the check stand, the total bill from Eagle will be lower. Thousands of shoppers have tested Eagle and found out how much they can save on the list of items their family uses most often. Eagle brings a new measure in food purchasing power through plain, simple savings on a regular basis, the type of savings that can really add up on a weekly, monthly, and yearly basis, and they invite shoppers to test price Eagle for themselves.

Shoppers always find the produce counters at Eagle well-stocked with fruits and vegetables from world-famous orchards, vineyards, gardens and farms.

Farm Fresh Produce In Great Abundance

In season or out of season, Eagle offers the shopper an exciting variety of fruits and vegetables all year around. Once you've seen the display in the produce department, you can't help be aware of the quality as well as the wide selection. These items include exotic fruits and vegetables as well as seasonable produce.

Eagle purchases produce at its ripe and flavorful best, and has it transported quickly in temperature controlled trucks and rail cars.

One example of the care Eagle takes to be sure homemakers get the finest produce at all times is continuous inspection of all incoming shipments before it warrants the farm fresh guarantee.

Frequent deliveries from the distribution center to the store make sure the produce on display is as fresh as possible.

Many Eagle Discount Supermarkets have a Variety Department where shoppers will find a wide selection of housewares, hardware, lawn and garden needs, and colorful domestics such as linens and towels.

One Stop Shopping Discount Center

One of the latest trends in shopping convenience is the addition of variety centers to supermarkets. This enables the shopper to do much of her shopping at one time, purchasing not only her family's food needs, but also much of their non-food needs and household products at the same store.

Shoppers at Eagle Discount Supermarket find this added convenience in many Eagle stores. The Variety Department in many Eagle Discount Supermarkets offer shoppers truly fine quality products at consistent savings...savings that can be counted on time and time again to reduce a shopper's regular weekly budget.

Eagle offers a wide range of these non-food products, carrying many well known brand name items that shoppers have come to recognize for quality and dependability. There are housewares, like mixing bowls, dish and bath towels, measuring spoons; school supplies from notebooks to pens to typing paper... everything to assist young scholars whether they're in college or kindergarten; lawn and garden needs to make your home a neighborhood showplace, and yard work easier and more economical. Gift giving gets a real start at Eagle's Variety Center. There are cards for all occasions, wrapping paper and ribbon, along with many unique gifts that are sure to please everyone. Women shoppers appreciate Eagle's low discount prices in quality hose and panty hose, and the convenience that they find by being able to purchase these items when they do their family's grocery shopping.

In addition to these items, shoppers will find a wide selection of personal care products. Famous brand cosmetics, grooming aids such as hair spray, deodorant, bath and facial soap, and nail polish are among many of the items shoppers will find at Eagle... items that they use regularly. And they will find that Eagle's Everyday Low Discount Prices can save them money regularly on these purchases as well as their food needs. Health needs such as aspirin and non-prescription products are also available at Eagle's Variety Center, and at low prices shoppers will appreciate every time they shop the Eagle Way.

All of this makes Eagle a virtual one-stop-shopping center for many of the items shoppers use and need regularly. One-stop-shopping and non-stop savings is certainly a step closer to reality at Eagle because of the Variety Center. Eagle's merchandising policies like No Limits to your purchase, Key Buys for greater savings, and Single Item Pricing makes shopping the Variety Center as easy and economical as the rest of the supermarket. Eagle's sensible, down-to-earth pricing makes the merchandise in our Variety Center a real value. There are no occasional "specials," or scattered "bargains." Shoppers won't find the prices on some items raised to compensate for lower prices on other merchandise. Eagle doesn't believe that shoppers should pay more for what they want to buy so that something else can cost someone else less. Instead, everything in the variety center, including pre-priced items like magazines and greeting cards, is discount priced, unless controlled by law as a fair-trade item.

For convenience, savings, and quality, Eagle's Variety Center certainly leads the way for many shoppers. Sensible pricing and quality merchandise makes shopping Eagle Discount Supermarkets a pleasant, economical experience that shoppers will want to enjoy time and time again.

In domestics, Eagle features mix or match or choose your own combinations in bath ensembles, kitchen linens, and a vast array of rugs in many colors and sizes.

They carry fancy sheets and pillow cases in a variety of patterns and eye-catching colors up through the king and queen size sheets for fashion conscious homemakers. These can be color-coordinated in blankets.

Helpful advice is always free for the asking in Eagle's meat department. Just ring a bell and a butcher will be glad to cut meat to your specifications.

Every Cut Of Bonded Meat Is Unconditionally Guaranteed

Since the largest portion of a food budget goes for meat, it's especially important to be sure you're getting your money's worth.

At Eagle, the Bond on every cut of meat is an unconditional guarantee of complete satisfaction or the purchase price will be refunded to the customer.

According to one of Eagle's meat department experts, "Eagle has beef quality standards specifically designed to warrant customer's satisfaction and confidence. These standards are Eagle's and different from any other standard or grade."

Eagle meat buyers select beef that is youthful to guarantee tenderness, with a minimum of fat to ensure more servings per pound, and the right amount of marbling to assure flavor.

Because Eagle's everyday low meat pricing policy includes every fresh meat item, there's no need for shoppers to plan their meals around pre-selected weekend features.

To get the best value for the money spent for meat, real economy depends on the number of servings per pound, as well as the cost per pound. If the meat is trimmed improperly it will increase the cost per serving.

Eagle removes the "wedge bone" from a Sirloin, the "short ribs" from a rib roast and the "tail" from a T-Bone steak before weighing. This gives shoppers a better value, because they never pay for meat they cannot eat. Eagle's meat experts are happy to prepare any cut of meat to the customer's individual specifications.

No Limits To Your Savings

Among the many advantages of Eagle's pricing policy is that there are no limits placed on a customer's choice. Some supermarkets offer a few specials on weekends and then further limit the shopper to purchasing only one or two of the specially-priced item.

Eagle offers you discount pricing throughout the store, every day of the week, with no limits or restrictions on the quantity each customer decides to buy.

Shoppers' Test Prove Savings

Homemakers have made independent and separate shopping tests and proved to themselves that Eagle's discount prices give them significant savings on their regular weekly supermarket needs.

Eagle believes that the only way homemakers can find out where their food costs are less are by making comparison shopping tests. The reason behind this way of thinking is that the average shopping list varies from family to family. There are certain items and brands that certain families use, and these are seldom the same on two different shopping lists.

Thousands of shoppers have tested Eagle and found how much they save with Eagle's true discount pricing throughout the store. These are the type of savings that really add up week after week, month after month, and year after year; the type of savings that bring today's shoppers a new measure in food purchasing power.

LOCAL PASTORS AT CONFERENCE

Jacksonville ministers, Rev. Harold Hendrick, pastor of Lincoln Avenue Baptist Church, and Rev. Ronald C. Colton, Grace United Methodist Church, attended the National Conference on Church Management at the Sheraton Biltmore Hotel in Atlanta, Georgia, May 14-18.

Sponsored by Campus Crusade for Christ International, the conference was designed to aid pastors, church staff, youth directors and lay leaders in planning, setting goals, organizing programs and leading and motivating their people.

Reverends Hendrick and Colton were among the more than 600 delegates from churches all over the nation attending the five-day conference. They participated in seminars, workshops, and discussion groups which dealt with the principles of effective management.

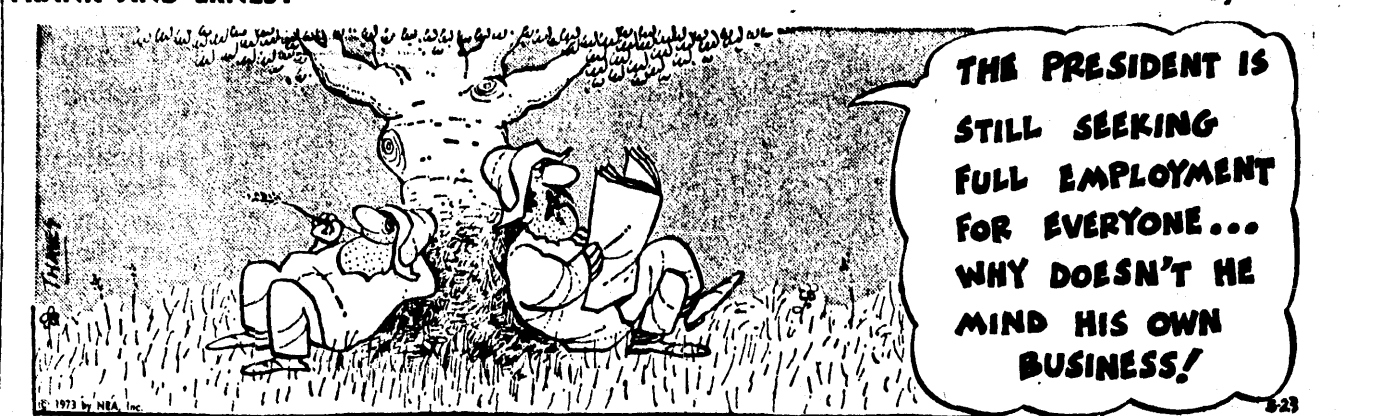

Heard were such noted speakers as Dr. Bill Bright, founder and president of Campus Crusade for Christ, and Dr. Henry Brandt, internationally known Christian psychologist, address topics such as "The Role of a Pastor" and "Spiritual Qualifications for Leadership."

(Mrs. Colton also participated in workshops and seminars on the role of the pastor's wife in both the church and the home, and how to create prayer groups within the church and community.)

N.Y. Surgeon Attacks Trend Toward Less Extensive Surgery For Breast Cancer

CHICAGO (AP) — A New York surgeon says the trend toward less extensive surgery for breast cancer is "a great leap backward."

His view is expressed in an editorial in the May 21 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

However, a leading Cleveland surgeon Dr. George Crile in a telephone interview, took issue with this position.

The editorial, written by Dr. C.D. Haagensen of Columbia University, argues that radical mastectomy results in the best long-term survival rates for carcinoma of the breast, the leading cause of death from cancer among women.

In this operation, the breast is removed along with Joining tissue, including muscles of the chest and arm.

Haagensen laments the threat of "a great leap backward" to lumpectomy and simple mastectomy, in these less extensive techniques, only the malignant lump or the diseased breast alone is removed.

"We already know enough regarding the inferiority of lumpectomy and simple mastectomy, with or without supplemental irradiation, to conclude that it is not wise or humane to condemn a woman to be treated with these methods," Haagensen asserted.

Dr. George Crile of the Cleveland Clinic, a well-known advocate of a more conservative approach, said, "I respect Dr. Haagensen enormously, particularly for his great and original work on the disadvantages of radical surgery in advanced carcinoma."

But he added, "This same work has led him to limit operation to more favorable cases so his results cannot be compared with anyone else's."

There are, Crile pointed out, a variety of operations which are less than radical which may be used in the treatment of breast cancer and which, for a particular type, are just as effective."

The Cleveland surgeon said he knows of no one who does lumpectomies alone to remove cancer. He and his colleagues do partial mastectomies, which are themselves extensive operations, Crile said.

Haagensen reported achieving a 10-year survival rate of 68 per cent in patients treated with radical mastectomy for breast cancer.

This compares with 60 per cent he reports another surgeon achieved elsewhere using "modified" radical mastectomies in which less tissue is removed.

Haagensen does not cite the studies at the Cleveland Clinic where results comparable to his are reported being achieved with simple mastectomies in selected cases.

BETTER BULLS

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — Because better fathers mean bigger calves, West Virginia University is planning a bull-testing station to help the state's farmers produce more beef.

University President James G. Harlow has appointed seven experts to help develop the station, which he said is needed to identify genetically superior beef sires for West Virginia farmers.

Bulls will be rated on the basis of the weight gain, carcass quality and feeding efficiency of the calves they produce.

It is expected that picking the best bulls as sires can increase the average weight of calves by 50 pounds each by the time they are of marketing age. This could mean millions of dollars of extra income for the state's beef farmers. Harlow said.

OWLS AREN'T HOT ITEMS

DALLAS (AP) — Owls are losing their favored position as the inspiration for home decorative items, according to buyer orders placed at the spring gift show at the Dallas Market Center.

Boyle's Mailbag

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a correspondent might never know if he didn't open his mail: African native wives refuse to eat spiders for fear they will have bald-headed babies. On the other hand, spiders are prized delicacies in some sections of Southeast Asia and India. They are rich in protein. Food is a matter of geography as well as taste.

America is getting two-wheeled. Last year, for the first time since the first World War, more bicycles than cars were sold in this country. About 40 per cent of Americans now ride bikes for exercise, and many use them as vehicles to go to and from work.

Doctors often resent a public impression that they are greatly overpaid. The American Medical Association points out that a government survey last year showed physicians averaged an income of $40,500 annually for a work week of 62.6

hours. On the basis of a 40-hour week, that would amount to $26,000 a year.

Household hint: Many diners don't like an extremely fishy taste in fish. This can often be avoided if you clean the fish immediately after catching them.

Quotable notables: "Nothing is easier than fault-finding; no talent, no self-denial, no brains, no character are required to set up in the grumbling business." — Robert West.

Some difference: Ever wonder what the real difference is between a million and a billion? Well if you gave your wife $1 million and told her to spend it shopping at the rate of $1,000 per hour for 40 hours a week, it would take her only 25 weeks to get rid of it all. But if you gave her $1 billion to spend at the same rate, it would keep her happy for some 481 years. So why not give her the billion?

Beta Sigma
Phi Chapters

Fifteen members of Gamma and Xi Alpha Upsilon chapters of Beta Sigma Phi met Monday evening, May 14, at the home of Helen Quinlan with Lois Wells as assistant hostess. Gamma president Elma Savage presided at the business meeting, during which time service chairman Helen Quinlan shared thank-you notes received from the children which the group helps at the Illinois School for the deaf and the Illinois Braille and Sight-Saving School. It was decided to postpone the last meeting of the year to Monday evening, June 11, at which time the group will meet at 7 p.m. at the Virginia Country Club for a dutch treat supper and installation of officers. During the social hour, an enjoyable and profitable silent auction was conducted by ways and means chairman Mary Adams. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

BIBLE SCHOOL AT GRACE METHODIST STARTS JUNE 11

Vacation Bible School will be held at Grace United Methodist church from June 11 through June 15, under the co-direction of Mrs. Michael Gioscio and Mrs. John Corder. The theme of the school will be Reach Out With Jesus. All children from three years old through sixth grade can be enrolled by calling Mrs. Gioscio (245-2564) or Rev. Wayne E. Armbrust (245-9521) before June 2.

In addition to Mrs. Gioscio and Mrs. Corder, the following will serve on the Bible School Staff: refreshments, Mrs. Dale Shafer; piano, Miss Rhea McCulley; music director, Miss Teresa Gish; crib nursery (for children of teachers and helpers only): Mrs. Joyce Heitz.

Nursery II, Misses Mary Spradlin, Karen Ahlquist, and Nancy Colton; Nursery I, Mrs. Donna Fogal, Mrs. Doris Fairfield, and Miss Karen Colton; Kindergarten II, Mrs. Phyllis Wells, Mrs. Kathy Rogers, and Miss Janet Colton; Kindergarten I, Mrs. Beverly Ware, Mrs. Gloria Shaul, and Miss Dawn Irwin.

JHS SENIOR SPEAKER FOR EXCHANGE CLUB

The Jacksonville Exchange Club met Monday evening at the Ranch House for its regular session and heard from Mike Brandenburg, a senior from Jacksonville High School.

Brandenburg was introduced by E. W. Logue, chairman of the club's Youth of the Year program and sponsored by the National Exchange committee on education.

Mr. Brandenburg was a participant in the essay contest with his presentation titled "Why I have confidence in America's future."

The speaker emphasized his confidence, stating that he believed in himself but never became overconfident.

He said youth must strive to accomplish their goals and people should listen more. He also suggested that youth must become interested in politics.

VIRGINIA BRIDGE MARATHON ENDS

VIRGINIA — The Virginia Woman's Club Round Robin winners were announced at the May luncheon held recently at the Virginia Country Club.

Bridge Group Two winners were Mrs. Robert Jokisch and Mrs. Reginald Jokisch. Their score was a total of 19,450.

Bridge Group One winners were Mrs. C. K. Heidbreder and Mrs. Blanche Goodin with a score of 18,730.

The final Pinochle scores were 66,570 and the winners were Mrs. Jess Cox and Mrs. Jim Brasel.

The Virginia Woman's club has held the Round Robin Bridge the past five years as a major money-making project. It is open to the public, you need not be a member to take part. At the October meeting the 1974 Round Robin will be started, at that time all couples will be signed up.

JAZZ MUSEUM GOES INTO A SCHOOL

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Jazz Museum has started a program in collaboration with the Joan of Arc Mini School. The museum is presenting an eight-week program designed to "educate, inform, involve and expose" 14 to 16-year-old students to jazz.

There are lecture, discussion, demonstration, talks with musicians, records, films, slides, concerts and rehearsal attendance, and student participation.

Arcadia Club Guest Day At May Luncheon

The May luncheon for Arcadia Woman's club was Wednesday, the 19th, at the Blackhawk. Mrs. Clyde Patterson and Mrs. Wilson Henderson were hostesses. Before the 12:30 buffet luncheon the Lord's Prayer was offered in unison.

Mrs. Allan Henderson, president, called the meeting to order with devotions and a poem, with the pledge to the flag led by Mrs. Byron McGinnis, followed with the song of the month.

Memorial services paid tribute to Mrs. Margaret Parlier and Mrs. Bernice Ruby, both charter members. Mrs. Loren Burrus read the memorial and used purple iris and white candles for the ceremony. Mrs. Wilson Henderson read The Old Pump Organ and Mrs. Burrus closed with prayer.

Mrs. Robert Daniel read the club collect and Mrs. Harold McGinnis minutes of the last meeting, and correspondence from Mrs. Edward Strubbe, Mrs. Mary Opperman and the Kawn Moody family. Mrs. Edward Strubbe read thank-yous from the families of Mrs. Margaret Parlier and Mrs. Edna Mallicoat. Each answered roll by introducing her guests.

Mrs. Arthur Kershaw will be hostess for the June 13th meeting at her home, 1423 South East street, Jacksonville.

The Memorial Services for the public will be at 2 Sunday afternoon, May 27th, at the Arcadia church.

Mrs. Clyde Patterson, chairman for the Mother's Day program, brought greetings to members and guests and read Mother's Day Recipes, by Reginald Holmes. Mrs. Wilson Henderson read Grandmother's Kitchen. Mrs. Patterson conducted a Mother's Day contest and the prize went to Mrs. Edna Mallicoat.

Mrs. Loren Burrus gave the treasurer's report. Mr. Black took pictures of those present. Mrs. Clyde Patterson led the club prayer and told of the tour of Witty's Ceramic Shop at Concord.

Guests attending were Mrs. Hettie Barber, Mrs. Beulah Ledford, Mrs. Rita Kershaw, Mrs. Leah Reams, Mrs. Ruth Masten, Mrs. Louis Mallicoat, Mrs. Agnes Strickler, Mrs. Hazel Hall and Mrs. Dorothy Lee Mawson.

Members at the meeting were Mrs. Loren Burrus, Mrs. Roscoe Goodpasture, Mrs. Robert Daniel, Mrs. Allan Henderson, Mrs. Wilson Henderson, Mrs. Arthur Kershaw, Mrs. Byron McGinnis, Mrs. Harold McGinnis, Mrs. Clyde Patterson.

Mrs. Edward Strubbe, Mrs. Clarence Thompson, Mrs. Martin Thompson, Mrs. Vern Thomas and Mrs. Clarence Mallicoat.

Notes On Music

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Paul Simon is emerging more and more. He has a new album out, "There Goes Rhymia" Simon, his second solo album since the breakup of Simon and Garfunkel, and he started his first tour in three years, his first as a solo, May 4-June 3, in 11 cities; then to London.

That's going so well, Simon thinks he'll do another tour in the fall. "At the end of Simon and Garfunkel, it was all too big. The halls were too big and it was getting boring.

"Then it was sort of beginning again to start to develop a repertoire of songs that were closely associated with me and not just with Simon and Garfunkel. That takes time. Now my program is kind of balanced between my own albums and songs I wrote for Simon and Garfunkel. And partly it was fear, that I laid off so long. Once you get where you achieve some kind of strong popularity and you lay off awhile, you start to get very afraid to go back."

Simon is pleased with the new album, on Columbia, which he also produced. "I wanted this album to be richer in voices than the last, which was sparse. I used the Dixie Hummingbirds, a famous gospel group, and Maggie and Terre Roche, two friends, sang with me on 'What a Sunny Day.' The Rev. Claude Jeter, a well-known gospel singer, sang with me on 'Take Me to the Mardi Gras.'

"I really like to hear voices. I think voices will come back. I don't know if it is going to come this year, but I'm sure sooner or later there will be a shift back to singing together as opposed to hearing a band together. I think there will be a shift away from the lead guitar as the lead instrument of rock 'n' roll. I'm bored with screaming electric guitars."

The Onward Brass Band recorded with Simon on "Take Me to the Mardi Gras." "I'd tell them to begin to play here and it should build here. Otherwise, I let them do it. That is really why I have them; their strengths are what I want."

"I wanted different textures on the album, real people instead of imitators, combining that with modern songs."

"I like the principal of variety. I think some things I'm better at than others; I think I sing ballads better than I sing rhythm tunes, though the first single is a rhythm tune, 'Kodachrome.'

"But I have an interest in a lot of different styles of writing. And partly it is part of the puzzle of making a record — something like the 12-tone scale. You're not supposed to repeat yourself until you've used them all up."

"I think in certain ways writing in a lot of styles works to my disadvantage. I don't think people have a clear picture of me. I think people did have a clear picture of Simon and Garfunkel. 'Scarboro Fair' was typical; pretty, sweetly sung harmonies."

"I'm sure a lot of people were disappointed when it ended, but it was the best possible thing to do. The frustrations of continuing a relationship that is not fruitful any longer but is enormously successful is a strain. We had different musical tastes and different ambitions. When a group ends there is a little bit of rancor involved, it's unavoidable, but with us there wasn't much, really."

"It starts out good and it traps you. You have something good and you get bored. You try and change and the public doesn't want you to change. It's happened to so many people."

Simon says he got interested in Jamaican music in 1967. "I tried to capture it on 'Why Don't You Write Me?' on the 'Bridge over Troubled Water' album but I didn't really get it. The first time I really used it was on 'Mother and Child Reunion,' my first solo album. I liked the beat. It's simple, open music with a syncopated feeling to it."

There's a picture on the new album cover of Simon and his infant son in Jamaica. There's also one of Simon at 14. He's now 31 and not very interested in most pop music, which he thinks is aimed at teen-agers instead of people his age. He thinks it's one reason people his age are turning so much to 1950s rock 'n' roll revival shows.

He doesn't aim his writing specifically at an age group. "You have to write what interests you. You can't go looking for a market. Even the people who write bubblegum music must have some real feeling for it. Most of it doesn't sound phony to me, but it doesn't interest me very much."

On the tour, Simon has the Jesse Dixon Singers and a South American group, Urubamba — two-thirds of the old Los Incas plus two more.

"It fascinates me to deal with very talented people that the public doesn't really know. It's not like dealing with superstars, yet they are enormously talented. I'm working with one of the most famous of all gospel quartets but the general public doesn't know any gospel quartets."

"That's not to say that superstars wouldn't be really nice, too. I never asked any to play with me. Part of the reason was embarrassment; I didn't want to call them up and ask."

"I think it's a little bit incestuous, everybody playing around with everybody else. It's hard to maintain your identity. Everybody influences everybody, so you're getting part of yourself back."

"When the Dixie Hummingbirds sing, it is coming out pure Dixie Hummingbirds. They don't know me; their children or grandchildren might. But they're very interested to see what is going on and how you're doing it and happy to be part of something that is popular. They're people of great musical ability who never attained any significant amount of attention or money."

Simon says recording an album takes him less time than it used to. "I work with musicians who I know will play what I want on that particular song. I'm enjoying myself more now. I don't get tripped up too much any more. There's always some way of doing something that is interesting."

"It is more fun to sing, too. I stopped smoking several years ago and I really felt the effects of it over the last few years. And the more I sing by myself the more confident I get, so the more I enjoy singing by myself. I have much more freedom. I'm not locked into a two-part harmony situation. I can do the harmony the song calls for."

"In writing, it's the same. I can say, 'This is for me and the Dixie Hummingbirds,' or I can use Claude Jeter to sing a part in the middle if I want. Most of the time I have a picture of how I want it to sound in my mind while I'm writing."

"I always like songs when I'm recording them. But sometimes they don't come out the way I had them in my mind. If I have a difficult time recording a song, I get a prejudice against it. And I've turned on a bunch of them. 'The Dangling Conversation' I hate. 'At the Zoo' I hate. 'Learn How To Fall' is not my favorite song on this album, either. I wouldn't say I hate it but it doesn't make me want to get up and dance."

"You can't hide every mistake. Sometimes I think, 'Well, I'll put it out and people will say it was a good try. The next album, I'll do it another way, right.' 'Why Don't You Write Me?' eventually became 'Mother and Child Reunion,' in that I was going into the Jamaica thing and it evolved."

Simon hasn't planned his next album. "But I'd like to do more with full orchestra. I haven't done that yet."

State Insurance Bid Undergoing Review

By MICHAEL K. ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The administration of Gov. Daniel Walker announced Wednesday that it will review its decision to award the state employees group life insurance contract to the Crown Life Insurance Co. of Canada, which submitted a bid $17,704 higher than one offered by Golden Rule Insurance of Lawrenceville.

In a statement, personnel director Nolan Jones said that when the "review is completed, we will announce whether the contract will remain with the Crown Life Insurance Co."

"A formal contract with Crown has not yet been signed," Jones said. He added that the state employees group health insurance contract with Blue Cross-Blue Shield and a life contract with either Crown or Golden Rule will go into effect July 1 as announced.

After the governor announced the awarding of the two contracts at a news conference May 17, his aides acknowledged that Golden Rule had been the low bidder. By their calculation, the Crown bid was $17,704 higher.

A Walker aide said at the time that the Crown bid was accepted because the administration believed that the Canadian company would give the best service on claims.

In his statement, Jones said that "additional facts have come to my attention, facts that require the review."

"The additional facts have a bearing on the financial and legal ability of the Golden Rule companies to handle the life program," he said.

Jones was unavailable for questions. An aide said the director was preparing for a Senate executive committee session Wednesday night at which he was scheduled to be considered for confirmation in his post. The aide refused to comment on the reason for the review.

The state employees group insurance contracts have been a focus of controversy since the first one was drawn up by the administration of Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie. One provision of the agreement, which first went to Northeastern Life Insurance Co. of New York, would have allowed the company to raise premiums unilaterally, in the view of some attorneys.

The size of the profits reaped by the firm also came under questioning.

MARSHA GOLDSBY TIED IN AUGUST

ASHLAND — Mr. and Mrs. Scott E. Goldsby of Pleasant Plains announce the engagement of their daughter, Marsha L., to Steven C. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl S. Taylor of Springfield. An August wedding is planned.

Miss Goldsby is a graduate of Pleasant Plains high school and is employed by Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

Mr. Taylor is a graduate of Illinois State University, Normal, and is a math teacher at Ashland.

COST OF LIVING RAISE FOR ALUMINUM WORKERS — PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The United Steelworkers (USW) announced Wednesday that about 34,000 aluminum workers will receive a nine-cent-per-hour cost of living pay increase effective June 1 from five major aluminum producers.

The increase was the second

McCord

McCord had said that he received executive clemency offers repeatedly, from Caulfield and fellow Watergate defendant E. Howard Hunt—dating back to September 1972.

McCord was in the hearing room during part of the time Alch was reading his statement, then retired to a stairwell to read a copy.

Fensterwald approached chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., when the committee recessed for the day and asked that he and McCord be permitted to testify Thursday morning in response.

Alch said McCord wanted to base his defense on the fact that as security chief of the Committee for the Re-election of the President he was after information about groups planning potentially violent demonstrations. He said McCord mailed him clippings and memoranda along that line constantly as he prepared for the trial.

Alch said he planned to use "the defense of duress"—which holds that an illegal act can be condoned if it prevents a greater harm and said flatly that McCord's assertions he wanted to blame the operation on the CIA was "absurd and completely untrue."

"At no time did I suggest to Mr. McCord that the so-called CIA defense be utilized, for the defense of duress had already been agreed upon," Alch said.

"I merely asked him whether or not there was a factual basis for this contention," Alch said.

"Mr. McCord's allegation that I announced my ability to force his CIA personnel records with the cooperation of then acting CIA Director (James R.) Schlesinger, is absurd and completely untrue. No such statement was ever made."

Caulfield told the committee he had no personal knowledge that the offer of executive clemency to McCord had come from President Nixon. Nixon reiterated Tuesday he made no such authorization.

cost of living hike paid to aluminum workers this year under terms of the 1971 wage contract. On March 1 they received a nine-cent cost of living increase.

Summers Qualifies In Shot Put

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. — Illinois College's Ron Summers qualified for the next round in the opening session Wednesday of the National NAIA track and field championships.

Summers, a junior who owns the 1C record, fired the shot put 52'3", which was 11th best out of 12 qualifiers Wednesday. Summers will compete again Thursday afternoon, with the best seven moving on to the finals Thursday evening. None of the tosses in Wednesday's first round was over 56 feet.

Bruce Penstone, IC's other qualifier for the nationals, failed to qualify in the javelin Wednesday, getting off a best throw of 194'8".

saying police came to his home last Monday.

"They appeared to believe I was a heroin addict and asked to inspect the veins of my arms and legs," Lambton said. "I consented. They were unmarked."

"They then asked to search my house. I willingly complied and showed them at once a small parcel of 'soft' drugs that I had confiscated from a friend many months ago. They also found some barbiturate pills which I have had on and off on prescription for 15 years."

"If I had any sense of guilt I had ample time to hide the things. I made no attempts to do so."

The attorney general's office did not go into details of the drugs accusation.

The London Evening News said the Lambton case was only "the tip of the iceberg."

The Evening Standard said a number of politicians' names had been given to Scotland Yard, including that of another government minister.

Names were reported to be taken from a diary uncovered by probes into pornography rackets. The book was said to contain information on a sex ring and a leading model agency.

Minority Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said later he thought that Nixon "could have been more vigilant" in spotting the Watergate coverup.

In another development, James R. Schlesinger, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, said he believes there was a combination of poor judgment by CIA officials who became involved in the Watergate developments and overzealousness by White House aides.

Schlesinger made the comments before he testified at a closed session of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

In a statement issued Tuesday, Nixon said that shortly after the Watergate break-in, he was informed of the possibility that there was CIA involvement. Nixon said at that time he was concerned that the investigation of the burglary of the Democratic National Committee headquarters could, then, uncover covert CIA activities unrelated to the break-in.

Nixon said he instructed H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, then his two top aides, to make sure that the Watergate break-in didn't expose unrelated CIA activities.

Schlesinger said that in retrospect, the reaction of the two White House aides was "at the least, overzealous."

It has since been disclosed that the CIA gave technical assistance to E. Howard Hunt, later convicted as a Watergate conspirator. The assistance was used by Hunt to engineer the burglary of the office of a psychiatrist treating Pentagon papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg. CIA officials have said they didn't know the material they gave Hunt would be used for a burglary.

It also has been alleged that White House aides sought CIA assistance in trying to stop an FBI investigation of the movement of Republican campaign funds through Mexico.

"There have been indications there were a number of errors of judgment by CIA officials made with regard to certain requests from the White House," Schlesinger said.

Harris Challenges Walker Appointees

By LARRY KRAMP
Associated Press Writer

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — President William C. Harris of the Illinois Senate said Wednesday Gov. Daniel Walker's acting directors of public aid and public health do not meet legal standards, and it is up to the governor to correct this by making legal appointments.

Harris said in a news conference he had not made a decision to proceed in law suits against Joel Edelman, acting director of public aid, and Dr. Joyce Lashof, acting director of public health.

"I can read the statutes that are as clear as the back of my hand," Harris said. "As Senate president I will require the standards be met."

Harris said Edelman has not had 10 years experience in public welfare nor has Dr. Lashof obtained a master's degree in public health. Both standards are spelled out in the statutes, Harris said.

"It is completely incumbent on the governor to fill jobs with people who meet the standards," Harris said.

Harris said earlier in a broadcast interview Walker's written complaint Tuesday that the Senate had not advised or consented on 21 other appointees of Walker's was "a smokescreen" to draw attention away from the appointments the president called illegal.

Comptroller George Lindberg has asked Atty. Gen. William J. Scott whether under the 1970 state Constitution and the new comptroller's statute the acting appointees may legally be paid or may authorize payments to others.

In response to this, Walker directed a memorandum be sent to Scott that urged validation of the acting directors on the grounds that their counterparts had been employed by previous administrations. The memorandum said, "If it is felt the practice is undesirable, the proper remedy lies with legislative action governing the future."

In the news conference,

Picasso's Last Works Placed On Exhibition

AVIGNON, France (AP) — Pablo Picasso's final paintings, 201 unsigned, puzzling works from the last two years of his life, went on exhibit for the first time Wednesday.

The paintings at the Palace of the Popes, executed in the period from September 1970 to June 1972, were selected for exhibition by Picasso himself about a month before his death on April 8 at 91.

The moods and subjects change too abruptly to risk saying that Picasso had mellowed once he was past 90. His old themes of bullfighters, erotic couples and faces with an eye fleeing from the canvas persist.

Paul Puau, the director of the Avignon Arts Festival and the man the painter trusted to set up the exhibition, said: "I've lived with the paintings every day for two months. I love them. But where at first I was convinced there was some important departure, a new kind of tenderness in particular, I am now not so sure. There are too many forces at work in the paintings. Some are very hard, very angry. "I think you could say that the 201 are in a way a recapitulation of everything he had done over the years, as if it were the reflection of a whole career in a short time, not just a segment."

If there was a new theme, it was old age. There are many canvases in the exhibition that look like self-portraits. The hat that recurs in these paintings resembles one Picasso often wore, and there is something in the portraits that recalls photographs of Picasso.

The final picture, dated June 1972, is a couple making love. Puau could not say if Picasso planned the exhibition to end on this theme, but the artist had asked that the paintings be displayed more or less chronologically. The paintings will be returned to Picasso's widow when the show ends in September. No estimate of their value was made, but Puau indicated they were insured for several million dollars.

Vesco Not Anxious To Return To U.S.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Financier Robert L. Vesco disclosed Wednesday that he has no intention of returning to the United States to face a criminal indictment until the special Watergate investigation is under way.

Vesco broke his seclusion here long enough to appear with several bodyguards and advisers for an interview with three newsmen in a San Jose hotel. Then he slipped away, apparently headed for his secret residence somewhere in Costa Rica.

"I really don't want to make much of a comment now," Vesco said. "I'm planning to stay in Costa Rica for a while. I don't plan to go back to the States until the special prosecutor gets his work under way."

Archibald Cox of Harvard University, a former solicitor general, has been named to lead the independent Watergate investigation.

"It's a political thing," said Vesco's Costa Rican representative, Raul Espinosa.

Vesco is under indictment in New York along with former Attorney Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans on charges of trying to influence a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation with a $200,000 contribution to Nixon's 1972 campaign.

A local newspaper reported that Donald F. Nixon Jr., nephew of the President, was in San Jose last week. He is said to be an administrative assistant to Vesco.

The SEC has brought suit against Vesco in the United States, charging him with defrauding shareholders of investors overseas. Services of $224 million during a period when he was investing heavily here.

In addition, Swiss authorities have issued warrants for the arrest of Vesco and five other IOS officials.

Suits Filed To Halt U.S. Combat Role

By BERNARD HURWITZ
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two California congressmen filed separate suits Wednesday in U.S. District Court seeking to halt U.S. combat operations in Cambodia in the absence of congressional authorization.

Democratic Reps. Fortney H. Stark Jr. and Ron Dellums filed the suits against the secretaries of defense, Air Force and Navy.

Their suits asked the court to declare that engaging in combat operations in Cambodia violates the section of the U.S. Constitution which states that Congress has the right to decide whether the United States will fight a war which is neither the immediate repulsion of an attack nor a grave emergency during which Congress cannot act.

Both contended that continuing violation of the Constitution and other laws impairs their rights as congressmen to participate in the decision on war and to represent the interests and views of constituents to the best of their ability.

They also want preliminary and permanent injunctions to prevent the executive branch from committing American military forces to combat in Cambodia, conducting bombing in Cambodia, or otherwise engaging in warfare in Cambodia without prior authorization by Congress.

Both actions contend that current military operations in Cambodia have not been conducted "to protect American troops, safeguard withdrawal of American troops," secure the release of American prisoners or secure an accounting of missing American servicemen.

Stark's suit said the military activities "constitute 'war' within the meaning of the Constitution."

READER'S DIGEST
PRICE REDUCED

PLEASANTVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Reader's Digest says its newsstand price will be reduced from 60 to 50 cents in an anti-inflation effort starting with the July issue.

"This price decrease follows the steady growth in newsstand sales," the Digest said Tuesday.

The magazine, which originally sold for 25 cents an issue, reached the 60-cent peak in 1971. Two previous hikes led to other past cover prices of 35 cents and 50 cents.

PRE-MEMORIAL DAY attractions at Griggsville May 26th and May 27th include nationally-known Modern Country songstrees, Jeannie C. Both events are being held under the sponsorship of the Western Illinois Fair Association.

Lovely, multi-talented Jeannie C. Riley, became the toast of the musical world with her hit song, "Harper Valley P.T.A." The recording is one of the most phenomenal hits to ever come out of Nashville, Tennessee and sky-rocketed Jeannie C. into national fame overnight.

Appearing with Jeannie C. Riley Saturday, are The Homesteaders, right, consisting of five talented musicians who blend the modern beat into old traditional country music.

The Jeannie C. Riley Show time is 8 o'clock with the Sunday, May 27th Demolition Derby commencing at 2:30 p.m.

DRUGS MAY SOON BE AVAILABLE TO PREVENT BALDNESS

CHICAGO (UPI) — The physician who pioneered hair transplants says that within two years drugs may be available to prevent baldness.

Dr. Norman Orentreich, associate clinical professor of dermatology at New York University Medical Center, said Tuesday he is optimistic such drugs will be available because laboratory tests have proven drugs can retard balding.

"It is something I am certain we can do, probably in the next year or two and no longer than five years," Orentreich said.

He said the key to preventing baldness is knowledge, recently acquired, of how the male sex hormone, androgen, affects hair growth.

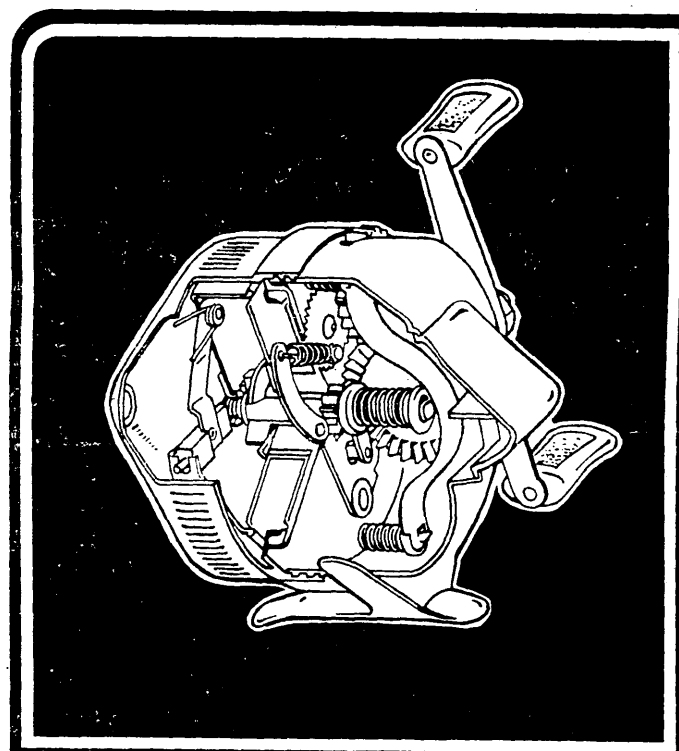

Orentreich, reporting at the American Medical Association's conference on hair growth, said, "Our preliminary clinical trials in humans also look encouraging."

JOHN BLESSE, well known Jacksonville artist, is shown with Mrs. Rose Russell who works with the Volunteer Services department at Jacksonville State Hospital, preparing for an art exhibit in the employee's dining room. Mr. Blesse's paintings will be featured during the 12th such exhibit. Blesse has been painting as a hobby since 1967 and his work is freehand. Before his 44-year career operating the city water plant, he was known as the youngest cigar maker in the state... that was at age 19.

Tigers Take Title In IVC Track Meet

CARROLLTON — Greenfield took six first-place finishes and used a strong supporting cast in romping to the Illinois Valley conference meet championship Wednesday in a meet which saw seven records broken.

Roger Copley was the only double winner in the meet as he won the 100 and 220 for North Greene.

Greenfield won the title with a total of 90 points to easily outdistance second-place finisher Carrollton, which had 65 points. North Greene followed with 45 points to edge out Winchester at 44 while Calhoun trailed with nine points.

Setting new IVC meet records were John Parks of Greenfield in the 440, Mike Bettis of North Greene in the 880, David Wynn of Greenfield in the mile, Rodney Roth of Greenfield in the two-mile, Jim McLelland in the 120-yd. high hurdles, Dennis Campbell of Winchester in the shot and Art Cunningham of Carrollton in the pole vault.

Waverly First In MSM Loop Fr.-So. Meet

KINCAID — Waverly outdistanced eight other entrants and captured the MSM frosh-soph title in the loop conference meet Tuesday evening.

Waverly racked up 68 points to edge second place Kincaid with 57. The other schools competing were Morrisonville with 32 points, Porta with 20, Greenfield with 19, Auburn with 15, Pawnee with 10, Girard with 8 and Diverson with 7.

Tigers Triumph By 4-2 Margin Over Carthage

QUINCY — Beardstown allowed Carthage only a pair of seventh-inning runs and won its opening game in the Quincy high school baseball Regional tournament 4-2 Wednesday afternoon.

Beardstown advances to play Quincy Christian Brothers today at 3:00 for the right to advance to next week's sectional tournament at Canton.

Ron Kuhlman was the winning hurler for the Tigers, taking the victory with four strikeouts and five walks.

Routt Takes PMSC, Tops Virginia 5-0

VIRGINIA — Routt clinched the championship of the PMSC baseball race Wednesday afternoon as it downed Virginia 5-0 behind the strong pitching of senior Tom Lockman.

Lockman, pitching no-hit ball until the fifth inning, took the mound win as he fanned 14 Virginia batters in the seven-inning game while allowing only one base on balls.

The Rockets jumped into the lead with two in the second on an RBI single by Jim Bernardini. Routt then added two more in the fifth as Kevin Kulish opened the inning with a triple and was followed by singles off the bats of Chris Yordling and Bob Kindred.

Routt then wrapped up the game with a lone run in the sixth on singles by Chris Keller, Bernardini and Lockman.

Bernardini and Keller were the Rocket hitting stars as each rapped out two hits apiece.

Rick Cox was the lone Redbird to get a hit as he singled with one out in the fifth to spoil Lockman's no-hit bid.

Routt now stands 14-2 overall on the season.

Waverly League

Riding's Dry Goods, Girard and Crow's Body Shop all picked up wins in the Waverly Softball league Wednesday night.

Ridings shutout Whalen, knocking out 22 hits to record an 11-0 victory. Kime led the winners with a pair of home runs.

Girard shut off a last-inning rally by Hanley Realty and won 9-5. Vineyard paced the losers with a double and a homer.

In the nightcap, Crow's pounded out 23 hits and romped to a 25-7 victory over the Slakers.

J. McIntire had a home run blast for the losing Slakers.

JHS Survives Rally To Edge Sauks, 3-2

Jacks Face Jerseyville For Crown

By BUFORD GREEN Sports Editor

Jacksonville High School ace Bill Turner worked out of a bases loaded jam in the bottom of the seventh inning as the Crimsons held on for a 3-2 victory over Pittsfield Wednesday evening in the Routt Regional Tournament at the Pony-Colt Park.

The victory, which moves JHS over the .500 mark at 9-8 on the year, advances the Crimsons into the championship game of the meet tonight at 6:30 against Jerseyville, a 3-1 victor over Porta Monday evening. The champ moves on to the Springfield Griffin Sectional next week to take on the Edwardsville Regional victor.

Turner breezed through six innings of three-hit, shutout ball and used key hits by Dave Westberg and Jim Waltrip for a 3-0 bulge entering the eventful seventh. The game, however, went down to the last pitch as did JHS' District title win over Winchester last week. Before the Saukee fireworks ended the eventual losers came within a run and had the bases loaded with only one out.

Jacksonville jumped on Pittsfield ace Don Apps for all three runs and six of their seven hits in the front four innings, seemingly enough at the time.

The Jacks took a 1-0 lead in the second when Turner lined a single to center, Russ Barber bounced a single through the box with one away and Westberg delivered an RBI single to center with two away.

Two innings later the winners made it 3-0. Kevin Reiterman drew a leadoff walk, Ben Denny legged out an infield single, Westberg hit into a force out at second with two out and Waltrip stroked a line double to the opposite field. Waltrip was out trying for third on the hit.

JHS threatened again in the fifth when Rick Roach walked, Kim Ervin slapped a broken bat single to center, with Roach moving to third, but Roach was out at the plate trying to score on Turner's fly ball. After that the curve-balling Apps settled down and allowed only one more runner, that coming on an error.

Pittsfield, which had managed only two runners as far as second base and one as far as third, broke loose in the seventh. Prior to the seventh, the Saukees' only scoring threat was erased in the third when Randy Ferguson singled, was balked to second and Capps singled to center, with Roach throwing a strike to Westberg to cut Don Bigley, who reached on a fielder's choice, at the plate.

Mike Barton started the Saukees off in the seventh with a bang with a roundtripper just out of Roach's reach in right center. Turner walked Cox and gave singles to Rodney Prentice and Mark Lord to load the bases with no outs.

Pittsfield's second run scored on Ferguson's ground out. After that pinch hitter Dana Ferguson ground back to Turner, with Turner getting pinch runner Doug Kattelman at the plate. Turner then got Bigley to foul out to right for the final out.

The Crimsons will go with righthander Steve Anders (4-1) in today's title contest.

May's Home Run Wins For Chisox

CHICAGO (AP) — Designated hitter Carlos May's three-run homer capped a four-run seventh inning rally as the Chicago White Sox defeated California 5-3 Wednesday night.

With the Sox trailing 3-1, Ken Henderson opened the seventh with a single, moving to second on Dick Allen's single and scoring on Bill Melton's single. Rick Reichardt forced Melton, but May then slammed his homer.

Bob Oliver belted a leadoff homer in the second off Sox starter Eddie Fisher, and then the Angels broke a 1-1 tie with a pair of runs in the fifth on a walk and singles by Sandy Alomar, Frank Robinson and Mike Epstein.

The Sox nicked Singer for a run in the fourth on Jorge Orta's leadoff triple and Eddie Leon's single.

Singer, last defeated April 17 at Minnesota, was in and out of trouble before the Angels gave him a 3-1 cushion in the fifth.

He walked two successive batters in the first before striking out Reichardt to end the first.

In the second, Eddie Leon's two-out single wound up with the White Sox filling the bases on third baseman Alan Galla-gher's bad throw on a force play and a walk to Pat Kelly. But Singer got Henderson on a long fly to right ending the inning.

In the third after Orta's lead off triple and Leon's run-producing single, a sacrifice bunt and a walk to Kelly left Sox runners on second and first with only one out. But Singer

Epstein then singled across Alomar for his first hit as an Angel in two games, after striking out three times in four trips Tuesday and his first two trips against Fisher.

10th-Inning Rally Wins For Cubs

MONTREAL (AP) — Ken Rudolph singled home the winning run in a two-run rally in the 10th inning, leading the Chicago Cubs to a 4-2 victory over the Montreal Expos Wednesday night.

Rudolph's bases-loaded single snapped a 2-2 tie and then Don Kessinger delivered an insurance run with a sacrifice fly.

The Cubs tied the game with a two-out rally in the seventh inning. A bases-loaded walk to Jim Hickman and single by Ron Santo delivered the runs.

Montreal had taken a 1-0 lead on Ken Singleton's RBI single in the third and made it 2-0 in the fourth on Ernie McAnally's double-play bounce that scored Bob Bailey from third.

Alou Delivers To Key Yankees To 6-5 Victory

DETROIT (AP) — Matty Alou delivered a two-out double in the ninth inning, driving home the tie-breaking run to give the New York Yankees a 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Gene Michael opened the Yankee ninth with a single, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored on Alou's hit.

New York jumped on Tiger starter Joe Coleman for three runs in the first inning. A walk to Horace Clarke followed by singles from Alou and Bobby Murcer brought home the first.

Ron Bloberg singled in another and Graig Nettles hit a sacrifice fly.

Singles by Duke Sims, Mickey Stanley and Ike Brown gave Detroit a run back in the second off Fritz Peterson. A homer by Sims in the third, after a walk to Frank Howard, tied the score.

Blomberg opened the fourth with a single before second baseman Tony Taylor let Nettles' double play grounder go through his legs for an error.

Thurman Munson singled in a run before shortstop Ed Brinkman threw a double play relay away to allow Nettles to score.

A homer by Stanley in the sixth was followed by another Tiger run in the seventh on doubles by Brinkman and Aurelio Rodriguez.

Reds Win 4-3 On Clutch Hit By Concepcion

CINCINNATI (AP) — Dave Concepcion's two-out single in the bottom of the ninth inning scored Johnny Bench with the winning run Wednesday night to give the Cincinnati Reds a 4-3 victory over Houston.

Bench opened the inning with a single and after Tony Perez struck out, Cesar Geronimo sacrificed Bench to second, setting the stage for Concepcion's hit.

The Astros tied the score with two out in the ninth on three straight extra base hits. Jesus Alou doubled and then Tommie Agee and Roger Metzger followed with consecutive triples.

The Reds struck first when Denis Menke homered in the third inning after Don Wilson had mowed down the first seven Cincinnati batters.

The Astros tied the score in the fourth on doubles by Doug Rader and John Edwards.

In their half of the fourth, the Reds regained the lead. Joe Morgan walked, stole second, was sacrificed to third and scored on a wild pitch.

Cincinnati added another run in the fifth when Menke walked, reached third on an error and scored on Pete Rose's bunt single.

Now his son Kim, 18, heads for his second season in the Reds' farm system as a pitcher and takes along some fatherly advice. "Keep your pride."

Nuxhall, a barrel-chested 245 pounder who turns 45 in July, was a fuzzy-faced "scared-to-death kid" when he faced the St. Louis Cardinals in relief in 1944. Baseball had never exposed a younger player to such a test.

"I pitched two-thirds of an inning, gave up five runs on two hits, walked five and had two wild pitches," recalls Nuxhall. "They beat us something like 18-0 or 18-1."

His pride took a pounding but Nuxhall wasn't ready to give it up, though it took seven years in the minors before his next call came to join the Reds.

"I told Kim last year when he went to the Reds' rookie league, it wasn't going to be an easy road."

"But if you work hard and take pride in yourself, that's important," said Nuxhall, who hasn't strayed far from the Reds' pitching mound.

He's been a member of the Reds' broadcast team for seven years. Prior to most Cincinnati games he can be found doing what he spent 22 seasons doing — pitching.

He throws batting practice to the Reds in his old uniform, No. 41.

"I'm probably closer to baseball now than ever," said Nuxhall, who says he's happiest trading quips with players or taking part in some locker room horseplay.

The elder Nuxhall was signed by the Reds after scouts went to take a look at his dad during a Sunday sandlot game. After one look at the hard-throwing teenager offers started coming in.

"Dad used to have me throw at a spot on a silo after I helped him unload coal. I could throw hard, but I didn't know where it was going," laughed Nuxhall.

"Back in those days you were looking for anything, so I signed." The contract called for $500 to sign and $175 a month.

"A ballplayer's salary was all we lived on in those days. It's not like that anymore, with endorsements and all the extras like $3,000 for a speech," he said.

"Sometimes I wonder if today's ballplayers have the pride we had then," said Nuxhall. "We felt we had to give something back to the game."

COLLISION: Pittsfield's Don Bigley is tagged out at the plate by Jacksonville High School catcher Dave Westberg. Bigley was out trying to score on a single with JHS' Rick Roach making a perfect throw home from center field. Play came in 3-2 JHS win in Routt Regional Wednesday afternoon.

Indy Racers Worry About Fuel Usage

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Roger Penske faces the Indianapolis auto race with what he admits is a monkey on his back: How to make his three entries go 500 miles on 350 gallons of fuel each.

He and other drivers, car owners and mechanics concerned with Monday's 57th running of the world's richest motor event will find some of the answers Thursday in "carburetion" runs at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

It will be the last time the 33 starters will be allowed on the 2.5-mile oval until they line up for Monday's start.

The four-hour session is allowed the teams to determine fuel consumption, tire wear and other race-day problems.

The word "carburetion" however, is a misnomer. The Indianapolis cars do not use carburetors. These devices that feed fuel to the engine long since have been replaced by sophisticated fuel-injection systems.

The cars also no longer use gasoline for power. The fuel is an exotic blend of methanol-alcohol, and in some cases, nitro.

It is highly inflammable and volatile. The powerful little racing motors gulp the fuel—particularly at the 190-plus miles per hour they will be going.

Indianapolis rules this year restrict each car to a maximum of 350 gallons for the race, including 75 gallons on board at the start.

And that's Penske's problem—and for his drivers, Mark Donohue, the 1972 winner; Gary Bettenhausen, who starts fifth, and rookie Bobby Allison, who goes off 12th.

"Our cars have been getting anywhere from 1.4 to 1.8 miles per gallon in practice runs," Penske noted Wednesday.

"That means we must not use more than 1.5 gallons per mile if, say, Donohue is to go the distance. The 350 gallons, if we can use it all, would project only 525 miles of racing."

"Also, we have to figure two or three pace laps even before we begin counting off the 500 miles. And there are other variables, all counting toward fuel consumption, in one way or another. These variables include such things as slowdowns, or yellow light situations."

Patriots Present Coach Fairbanks

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor
FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Chuck Fairbanks was getting that first big hello, the nice warm one.

The New England Patriots had summoned the media for the purpose of introducing their new head coach and general manager, this fine clean-cut young man who is going to lead them out of the wilderness.

The day the Patriots trotted out their tall, 39-year old new coach who had been at Oklahoma University seven years, one Boston newspaperman listened to Fairbanks, a native and resident of Michigan, answer a few questions and then hit him with one of his own.

"Where did you get that Oklahoma accent," he was curious.

"It rubbed off, I guess," said Fairbanks.

"Well, don't worry. In a year, it'll be gone and in its place will be a New England accent. You'll be talking just like one of the Kennedys."

Fairbanks smiled.

"And watch out you don't get shot," threw in the same newsman.

Chuck Fairbanks has been with the Patriots less than four full months and already he knows they take football seriously here. He also is aware the Patriots won-loss figures last season were 3-11 and there had to be a reason for that.

"I don't think the players were playing with the emotion, intensity and second effort they are capable of. I think they were doing less than their best."

Fairbanks says that in low key because that's the type of individual he is. He is not a screamer in the sense Vince Lombardi was and he's not the walking ad for grim determination Don Shula seems to be but he still has his own way of getting the job done. He has no plans to pattern himself after anybody else.

"I'm going to try and be myself," he says. "If I tried being someone else I'm sure I'd wear thin in a short time. I respect many coaches in this league. All of them in fact, but I have to do things my own way. There are a lot of ways to skin a cat."

Nonetheless, Fairbanks did speak with Dan Devine and Tommy Prothro before taking the job with the Patriots. Devine came out of the University of Missouri not that long ago and had a good year with the Green Bay Packers last season. Prothro left UCLA to go with the Los Angeles Rams, didn't do so well and was let out.

"Both were forthright in their comments to me," says Fairbanks. "Neither was willing to say to me 'You ought to do this or do that,' though. They left it to me to evaluate."

At a local banquet the other night, Fairbanks found himself sitting next to George Allen, Washington's head coach and general manager. Allen was very helpful. He told Fairbanks a number of things about handling both jobs.

"Every day is a crisis," he said.

Fairbanks knows about that because he has been working long hours since he took his new job. One or two of the lines in his forehead already have grown a bit deeper.

He insists he's enjoying the work. You ask him his primary aim with the Patriots this year and he says, "Improvement."

No one has to tell him the Patriots haven't exactly been a coach's dream the past four years, during which time they've made some changes at the top. One man, Penn State's Joe Paterno, turned down the job before Fairbanks. Why then did he take it?

"I can't do anything about what's happened in the past," he says.

"I wasn't looking for a job, and money was not the overriding factor in my accepting this one. What really clinched this one for me was the attitude of the people here involved with the club. I was impressed by their enthusiasm. I was convinced they were willing to allow a man-me—to run the organization. I felt they were giving me enough authority so that I could be successful."

Jim Plunkett, the Patriots' improving new quarterback, is another reason Fairbanks said yes to the multi-year contract he was offered.

"I think he's a fine person, a great young player and he'll improve," says the former Oklahoma mentor. "Without a quarterback you have nothing. He's the starting point. He can't win by himself but you can't win without him. The thing I like so much about Plunkett is his desire."

Fairbanks leaves a brilliant record behind at Oklahoma where he took over as head coach in 1967 after Jim MacKenzie died of a heart attack. In six years, he guided the Sooners to three Big Eight titles, two Sugar Bowl victories, one Orange Bowl triumph and an overall 52-15-1 record.

All this, however, accounts for nothing with those New England fans who live and die with the Patriots each Sunday during the fall and winter.

Says one Boston cab driver, a critic like most everyone else:

"Those Patriots give me a pain. Plunkett's got the potential but he doesn't get the protection ... they had Garrett, he was a crybaby ... they had Nance he couldn't get a running start, he hadda run flatfooted ... I don't think God can win with that team..."

Fairbanks is going to try.

"I know we can be successful," he says. "How long it will take though, I don't know."

The Patriots aren't pressing him. They're like the Internal Revenue Service, which always tells you there's no real hurry—next week will do fine.

Drivers Of The Week

WEEKS DRIVERS: George V. Brown and Tom Glassop are the Drivers of the Week this week from Jacksonville Speedway. Brown, a resident of Beards-town and the father of four children, drives car 58, a 1968 Road Runner with a 383. Brown has raced for seven years and owns his own car and serves as his own mechanic. Glassop resides in Jacksonville and is the father of a 1½ year old son. His car, a 63 Ford Fairlane with a 390 is owned and serviced by Ed Becker. Glassop has driven for two years and has a pit crew of Mike Mussetto and John Dawson.

Wright Announces Criticism Of Cosell

NEW YORK (AP) — Stan Wright, assistant track coach of the 1972 U.S. Olympic team, lashed out Wednesday at an interview with Howard Cosell called him great personal anguish.

Wright, accompanied at a news conference by his attorney, announced that although the interview caused him "to be the recipient of many derogatory and negative responses," no suit will be launched against the controversial sportscaster or any other party connected with the broadcast of the Olympic Games.

Wright, coach of the U.S. team's sprinters, said he had assumed full responsibility for the fact that Eddie Hart and Rey Robinson failed to show up in time for qualifying heats for the 100-meter dash because of a time schedule mixup.

Shortly after the incident last September Wright, a professor of physical education and head track coach at California State University at Sacramento, was interviewed by Cosell on ABC.

He said he learned later "from my friends and even from hundreds and hundreds of persons unknown to me that their reaction to the happening ... was one of complete disgust."

The coach said, "Cleverly and quite legally Mr. Cosell inferred that I would have to answer to the American people. Of course, he used the word 'we' — but his meaning was quite clear."

He was urged, he said, "to seek redress from Howard Cosell and his colleagues for an unfair, and inaccurate, portrayal of my part in the incident."

He said he decided not to sue Cosell but chose rather to call a news conference to announce what he termed a "non-suit suit" so that "I might protect in some way an athlete or official who might, in the future, through no fault of his own or even through an admitted mistake, find himself on the receiving end of a commentator like Howard Cosell — who could do to him what he did to me on his open mike before some 60 million people — while at the same time forwarding his own very profitable career."

Porta Divides MSM Twinbill With Auburn

PETERSBURG — Porta unleashed an eight-hit attack to down Auburn 5-3 in the nightcap of a makeup MSM conference game and gain a split of a doubleheader Wednesday.

Auburn overcame a 12-strikeout performance of Bill Gum in the first game to spill the Bluejays 3-1.

Rod Ruppel and Andy Winkelman each had a double and a single apiece to lead the Porta hitting parade in the second game while Gum had two hits in four trips.

Tracy Anderson paced Porta in the opener with two hits three at bats, while Auburn was coming up with seven hits and taking advantage of four Porta errors.

The Bluejays are now 9-2 in conference play, and 16-7 overall while Auburn now stands 7-5 in the MSM.

Cosell Criticizes Amateur Athletics

WASHINGTON (AP) — and other present sports

Sportscaster Howard Cosell unleashed a scathing attack Wednesday on the structure and operation of amateur athletics in the United States, especially those concerned with U.S. participation in the Olympic Games.

He urged Congress to enact legislation to create a federal amateur sports commission, as proposed by Sen. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky., which would set all the rules for U.S. athletes' participation in international competitions in lieu of the AAU

After an exchange with Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., chairman of the committee holding three days of hearings on the problems in amateur sport, Cosell said he also would favor Tunney's proposed legislation as a stopgap measure.

Tunney proposed the formation of a national commission on the Olympic Games that would in effect replace the present U.S. Olympic Committee. The commission's nine members would be appointed by the President.

Jim Colbert, 1972 Milwaukee Open winner, bogeyed four of the first five holes in the last round of the 1973 Jacksonville Open.

In Prep Track Meet

Bloom Favored For State Title

CHAMPAIGN — Bridesmaid in 1972 and seeking its first title since 1959, Chicago Heights Bloom rates the best odds as more than 800 of the state's premiere track and field athletes converge on Memorial Stadium for the 79th annual edition of the Illinois Interscholastic Track and Field Championships.

Coach Steve Miller's Trojans, with a leading 12 individual qualifiers and both relays in the field, seek to become only the fifth school in history to claim five team titles. Bloom reeled off a record four in a row from 1956 through 1959 and appears to be the best bet to dethrone the powerful Evanston, which is gunning for its fourth straight team title and has eight individuals and the 880 relay qualified.

Preliminaries in all events but the two-mile run will be held on the home layout of the Fighting Illini Friday, beginning at noon. State champions in 15 events will be crowned on the Tartan track Saturday. Field events will get under way at noon, with the first running event — the two-mile run — slated for 12:30 p.m. A crowd in the neighborhood of 20,000 is expected.

Only returning champion is Lebanon's sensational senior Craig Virgin, who took the two-mile last year in 8:51.9 and came back 150 minutes later to claim the mile in 4:09.2. Virgin is scheduled to try the distance double again in 1973 and his district times of 8:53.6 and 4:10.9 are best by far in both events. State record in the two-mile is 8:48.9, set in 1971 by New Lenox Lincoln-Way's Dave Merrick, while the mile mark is 4:07.1 and was set by Proviso West's Andy Isla-Rubert in 1970. Both marks are in jeopardy if Virgin gets strong challenges.

Drawing notice as top challengers to Bloom in the chase for the team title are Rock Island and Elmhurst York, both with 10 individual qualifiers, downstate powers Rantoul and Springfield Southeast, with nine qualifiers, along with Evanston (8), Alton (8), Joliet West (7) and Chicago Englewood (7). The Chicago Public League trials produced amazing performances, indicating an assault on the record book could be awesome.

"Last weekend the first really good one as far as weather is concerned, and the drops in time and the increase in distances was simply amazing," noted Meet Director Bob Wright, coach of the Fighting Illini. "Two men bettered the state record in their event in the district and at least a half-dozen more are very close to the record in other events. But, the intriguing aspect is the number of men and the caliber of competition we'll have up and down the program."

Chicago Parker's Mike McFarland ran the 220 in 20.9 seconds (:21.1) in the Public League Meet, while Springfield Southeast's Andy Roberts sizzled in the 120-yard high hurdles in the Lincoln District in :13.9 and teammate Charles Timms was right behind at :14.0. State record is :14.0 set last year by Joliet West's Gary Woolford. The sprints shape up as most combative. Standouts McFarland and Mike Monroe of East St. Louis Lincoln rate as strong favorites in both the 100 and 220. Both ran :09.7 in the 100 in the districts, while Monroe's 220 time of :21.5 was a half-second behind McFarland. Englewood sends a pair of strong quarter-milers into the 440 action. Al Sanders tied Harlan's Reg Johnson for first at :48.6 in the Public League Meet, while teammate Jim Thompson was right behind at :48.7. A sleeper could be Oregon's Dennis Donahue, who also has qualified in the 220. Donahue ran :49.1 in the Belvidere District. The half-mile field is brilliant and is led by sophomore Charles White of Thornridge, who blasted to a 1:52.8 in winning the Oak Lawn Richards meet. Mascoutah's Ed White has the next-best time of 1:55.0, but the 10th best qualifier, Crystal Lake's John Enright, ran 1:56.6 in the district.

LaGrange's Ron Sterrenberg and Bloom's Milton King were top qualifiers in the 180-yard low hurdles — and rank as challengers in the high hurdles — with times of :19.0 and :19.2, respectively. Another contender is Kanakee Eastridge standout Estus Hood, who went :19.3 in the lows and :14.3 in the highs. In the relays, Englewood could win both and that could be enough to sway the title to Coach Ed Wallace's Eagles. Englewood also has claimed the team title four times. The Eagles flew to a 1:28.7 clocking in the sprint relay and posted a 3:19.7 time in the mile relay and will have Sanders and Thompson running the final two legs of the mile relay.

Competition in the shot put and discus could be fierce. Leader in the discus is Palatine Fremd's Jerry Finis, an all-state football player, who flung the plate 170-3 in the district. ABL-Broadland's Stan Wienke is next at 166-7. Rolling Meadows' John Sloan is the leader in the shot put at 59-7, but close behind are West Frankfort's Jack Warren (58-6) and Bloom's Rich Scheffore (58-2 1/2).

Nine competitors sailed 22 feet or better in the long jump in district action. Stephen DeCatur's Fredrick Zinner is the leader at 22-9 1/2. Morton West's Paul Proffitt, a qualifier in the sprint, is next at 22-6. York's Brian Smith is the high jump leader at 6-6, while Champaign Centennial all-state basketball player U.S. Davidson and Belvidere's Dave Shattuck are close behind with leaps of 6-5 each. Smith's teammate George Muschler is among eight qualifiers at 6-4.

Bloom junior Tim Johnson is the leading qualifier in the pole vault, seeking to follow in the footsteps of his older brother, Jan, who soared to a state record 15-0 1/2 in 1968. Jan was a member of the U.S. Olympic team last year. Another qualifier in the vault is Morrison's Gary Wienke, who may get the unsolicited support of Illinois assistant coach Gary Wienke, a native of East Moline. (Morrison is only 30 miles north of East Moline up the Mississippi River.) "As far as I know, we're not related," the coach said, "but I'd sure like to see me" do well.

Evanston won in 1972 with 28 points. Bloom was second with 20. Alton took third at 13, while Thornton and Lebanon shared fourth with 12 points. Scoring is on a 6-4-3-2-1 basis for all events.

Csonka Reports He Has Become Slander Victim

MIAMI (AP) — Miami Dolphin running back Larry Csonka says he has become a victim of slander and impersonators.

Csonka said Wednesday impersonators have been using his name to impress women and spread tales of wild parties. "Before, I never really cared that much," the 240-pound, 6-foot-2 Csonka said. "But now I've got two kids in school, and my wife Pam is running this summer camp for girls, and I just don't need this kind of garbage being spread around."

Csonka said he had received a letter from a Pennsylvania minister, thanking him for giving such an inspiring sermon to his congregation.

"I never heard of the minister and couldn't figure out what was going on," he said. "I stopped for gas the other day," Csonka added, "and attendant asked me if I'd been to any swinging parties lately. I asked him what the hell he was talking about. He said he heard Jim Kick (another Miami running back) and I were getting involved in some swinging things around town."

"There were two calls to the house last week when I wasn't home, warning Pam to tell me there were narcotics agents following me around. These things have really got me bothered. We're seriously considering moving to Tampa."

SIU Swim Coach Goes To Harvard

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Ray Essick, Southern Illinois University swimming coach for seven years, resigned Wednesday to become swimming coach at Harvard University.

At Harvard, Essick replaces Don Gambrell, who has been named swimming coach at the University of Alabama.

Essick, 39, former swimming and track letterman at the University of Illinois, last year was named the NCAA District Four (Midwest) Coach of the Year.

Little League

The Giants and the Orioles swept to easy wins in Elks Little League action Wednesday evening.

The Giants, paced by Woody Stocker's two grand slam homers, swamped the Braves 20-3. Mike Campbell was the winning hurler while Kim Gordley also had a home run for the losers.

The Orioles scored in every inning except the first and breezed to an 18-9 victory over the Yankees.

Lewis Camerer blasted a grand slam while Jim Turner added a solo shot, his third of the year. Turner struck out nine batters in the three innings he pitched before giving way to Camerer.

Business — Market Wrapup

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The American idea of success is being infiltrated by doubt, with resulting restlessness and disillusionment, a survey soon to be published by the American Management Associations indicates.

The survey, which drew the greatest response ratio in the business and educational organization's 50-year existence, shows that many businessmen, rather than an isolated few, are reacting against conformity and impositions on health and conscience. The survey received 2,821 usable replies.

—More than half the businessmen queried reported that pressures to conform are growing, or at least not decreasing.

—Nearly 30 per cent said job requirements have hurt their health in the past five years, mainly "from increased strain and tension brought on by heightened day-to-day business pressures."

—While much of top management is "career-content," an "alarming 40 per cent" of all surveyed middle managers and 52 per cent of the reporting supervisory managers say that they find their work, at best, unsatisfying.

—Nearly 50 per cent have changed, or have considered changing, their occupation in the past five years.

Scheduled for publication early next month, it is bound to cause a stir in corporate personnel circles because the respondents, all managers, represent supposedly successful people.

While there has been little doubt that executive suite rumblings were growing louder, it is likely that only a relative few and highly skilled observers were aware of the degree to which the discontent has spread.

One reason for the failure to recognize the rapid changes of attitude is that most of the dissatisfied executives continue to give off signals, in dress and manner, that superficially are said to indicate success and contentment.

The report borrows a definition of success from author Richard Huber, who wrote in his book, "The American Idea of Success," that:

"In America, success has meant making money, and translating it into status, or becoming famous... Success was not earned by being a loyal friend or a good husband. It was a reward for performance on the job."

The success ethic, at times called the Puritan ethic or the Protestant ethic, is said to have been exemplified by a merging of morality and material goals, which in turn is said to have produced the great American industrial nation.

Now, suggests the American Management Association study, authored by Dale Tarnowski, "the shift in success-related values may be away from the accumulation of treasures that can be readily measured..."

Replacing that measure, the study concludes, may be a shift "toward the realization of less tangible objectives upon which no price — in dollars and cents, at any rate — can be representatively placed."

Spanish Stock Market An Investor's Dream

By PETER UEBERSAX
MADRID (UPI) — The bull is somewhat of a symbol for Spain — and it certainly has been the symbol for its stock market.

In the past 12 years, the Spanish bolsa (stock market) has been one of the most bullish in the world. Except for a period of wobbling in 1970-71, it has been an investor's dream, according to foreign bankers stationed in Madrid.

Since 1960, Spanish stocks on an average have quintupled in value. A $1,000 investment 12 years ago in a cross section of Spanish bank stocks—traditionally the bolsa's leaders—would be worth more than $20,000 today.

Still, Europe's most dynamic stock exchange has been attracting surprisingly few foreign investors, even though its bullishness combines with the absence of Spanish taxes on foreign-owned stock and dividends and the possibility of transferring dividends, capital gains or the whole investment out of Spain any time.

SOYBEAN, WHEAT FUTURES ADVANCE

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat, soybean and soybean meal futures advanced the limits allowed for one session on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday. It was the fourth straight limit advance in the three pits.

Wheat futures rose 10 cents a bushel, soybeans 20 cents and meal $10 a ton. Corn, oats and soybean oil prices also were strong.

Iced broilers were down 1/2 cent a pound in very slow trade. The principal influence on the buying of futures appeared to be the strong continuing demand for wheat, soybeans and meal throughout the world, the scarcity of sellers here, and fears that this year's production of major grains by United States farmers may not meet government goals.

Old crop soybean and soybean meal futures opened the limit higher while deferred options were a shade under these levels. Minutes later, however, all options in the two pits were at limits.

Oil prices showed some easiness early then rallied for a 35 point gain.

There was concern too that in some sections of the Southwest moisture is needed for the winter wheat crop. In the South and Midwest, however, too much moisture and flooded farm land still posed a question whether acreage will be dry enough to put the drop into the ground in the next few weeks.

Time is running out in some sections of the Midwest, floor sources said, and this tended to influence strong buying activity in new crop corn and oats options.

After about an hour, soybeans were up 20 cents a bushel, July 8.98; wheat was 10 cents higher, July 2.89 1/2; corn was 4 1/4 to 7 higher, July 1.95 1/4 and oats were 1 1/2 to 2 1/4 higher, July 1.03.

Try to Interest Friends

"Certainly we try to interest friends abroad in investing in Spanish stocks," said Miguel Echegaray, resident adviser of one of the big U.S. banks. "The reaction I got from a London group last week was typical — and what if Generalissimo (Francisco) Franco dies?"

By all appearances, Franco is in good health for a man of 80. But the fear—whether founded or not—that his death some day will trigger profound political and economic change kept foreign investment in Spanish stocks to an estimated $30 million last year, Echegaray said.

"The Spanish economy has the biggest growth rate among the major industrial nations next to Japan," he said. "It is in a dynamic situation which will get still better."

In 1972, the over-all market index rose by one third. In the first quarter of 1973—undeterred by the dollar crisis or the downward trend on Wall Street—it climbed from 100, where it starts every Jan. 1st, to well above 120, indicating an even better rise this year.

Go-go Market

What makes the bolsa a go-go market?

Banking sources named these factors:

—Spanish companies on the whole have been reporting good earnings and a steady growth of profits (banks annually earn between 28 and 36 per cent of equity).

—Spain's major companies increase their capital almost every year, and they normally do it through rights issues which enable stockholders to buy new stock at nominal value.

—A new middle class is emerging in Spain and is beginning to invest in shares and funds.

—There is no legal way for the newly accumulated wealth of individual Spaniards to be invested in foreign shares.

Crawford, Lopes Spark Dodgers To 5-1 Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Willie Crawford homered, singled and drove in two runs, and National League-leading hitter Dave Lopes improved his average to .376 with two hits, leading Los Angeles to a 5-1 victory over San Diego Tuesday night.

Don Sutton scattered six hits to gain his fifth victory in eight decisions.

Crawford slugged his home run, his second of the year, in the second inning with no one on base, a mammoth shot landing halfway up the pavilion in right field.

San Diego tied the game on John Grubb's RBI single in the third.

But Crawford put Los Angeles back in front to stay in the fourth, driving a single to right to score Willie Davis, who had doubled.

The Dodgers, who've won five of their last six starts and 17 of their last 23, added another run in the fifth on Lopes' single. Lopes singled in another run in the seventh when the Dodgers added two more runs.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market managed a small advance Wednesday, putting together back-to-back gains for the first time in nearly three weeks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which had risen 5.95 points Tuesday, added 2.56 to close at 895.02. Advancing issues edged decliners, 731 to 703, on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume, brisk earlier in the week, dropped sharply to a relatively sluggish 14.95 million shares.

Analysts said the downward pressure, which had cut deeply into stock prices recently, seemed to have abated. However, they said, the impetus for a strong rebound was still lacking amid investors' concern about the Watergate case and domestic and international monetary and economic prospects.

"There's at least a little support at this level," said Eldon A. Grimm at Walston & Co.

"The whole market had taken an awful trouncing, and it was just natural for it to rebound a little bit."

For the third straight day, American Telephone warrants were the Big Board's most-active issue, although there was no specific news relating to it. The warrants closed unchanged at 6 in trading that included four blocks of 20,000 shares or more.

Deere & Co., which reported a sharp gain in quarterly earnings Tuesday, jumped 2 1/2 to 40 1/2 in active trading.

Glamour stocks turned in a mixed performance. Xerox, which demonstrated its new color copier and introduced a computer printer, was up 1 at 148 1/4; Polaroid added 1/4 to 130 1/4; but IBM dipped 1/4 to 389 1/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, Scott's Home Building Supply was the volume leader, sliding 2 1/4 to 14 1/4. A 163,800 share block of the issue changed hands at 14.

The Amex's price-change index eased off .01 to 22.43, posting its 11th consecutive decline.

The Big Board's index of more than 1,500 common stocks was up 0.23 at 54.89.

Sending gifts and unable to attend were Mrs. Dolly Force and Miss Faye Richard.

Light refreshments were served the group following the opening of gifts.

HUNTSVILLE, ALA.: Skylab Commander Charles "Pete" Conrad is helped into the neutral buoyancy simulator at Marshall Space Flight Center here Tuesday by center technicians. Conrad and the other members of the prime crew of Skylab II have been working out at the simulator learning how to install a sunshield on the orbiting space laboratory. They were scheduled to leave Huntsville for Cape Kennedy later in the day. (UPI Photo)

Why rely on large lenses that are less sharp wide open and forced development of high-speed films that result in grainy pictures? Are we getting lazier?

Not so many years ago press photographers carried a large case containing a Speed Graphic camera, film packs or cut film holders, a battery-powered flash unit with plenty of flash bulbs, extra extension flash units, an extra lens or two and a focusing cloth. A few smart ones also carried with them two or three 250-watt photoflood bulbs. The case, when loaded, could weigh as much as 35 or 40 pounds.

Today's photographer carries two or three 35mm cameras, lenses, a small strobe unit (some of these only weigh ounces) and, if he's smart, a few photoflood bulbs. His bag weighs in at around 10 pounds, about a fourth of what his brother in arms carried only a couple of decades ago.

Consider that the average amateur photographer carries even less! Then why should another pound of equipment be such a big headache? Or is it that everyone has become so brainwashed with the idea of taking pictures in natural light, no matter how bad, that quality has been kicked out the window?

Why not boost the light level in a room with photofloods? I like the small 250-watt bulbs that look just like a regular light bulb.

Try screwing two or three of these into the sockets of table lamps or overhead lights in a room. It can boost the light level by two or three f-stops.

If you need more light than that, there are adapters on the market that screw into a regular lamp socket into which you can plug a small 650-watt quartzite. That will boost the light level another stop or two!

If no lamps are available, you can make your own and carry them around with you. I use a regular electrical socket attached to a spring clamp so that it can be attached to something high in the room where I'm shooting. I don't use reflectors. I like the light to scatter evenly around the room.

Any photoflood or quartzite will do when shooting black and white film. If you want to shoot color, make sure that you're using the right lamp and the right film. Each lamp has a color temperature rating, called kelvin. Type B tungsten color film needs a lamp with a 3200K rating. Type A tungsten film needs a rating of 3400K.

Using the wrong film will result in hotter than normal colors. A few words of warning: 1. Don't plug too many of these into the same outlet. You may blow a fuse. 2. Make sure that the lamps are positioned normally, that is, where existing lights are or, if you're using an extension, high and in a corner behind you. 3. The lamps get hot so let them cool off before you touch them.

Now, if you're one of those people with an expensive camera and big lenses, switch to a slower film and see how much sharper your pictures are. Stop playing with matches. You might start a fire!

RACHMANINOFF'S 100th CELEBRATED ON RECORDS
NEW YORK (AP) — A five-album, 15-record collection of all known piano recordings ever made by Sergei Rachmaninoff will be released in the fall by RCA Records.

Rachmaninoff was born in 1873. Vaults of the record company disclose that 13 items recorded by Rachmaninoff were never released. They will be scattered through the five sets.

Camera Angles

By SANDY COLTON
AP Director of Photography
So you've taken a picture by the light of a match. Big deal! Also ... big grain, high contrast, fuzziness caused by camera movement or subject movement, or your inability to focus in the dim light! Oh, maybe you were lucky and did get a sharp picture. And, maybe, it was interesting, different, unusual. Okay, you're forgiven. But why is it that so many people today are taking pictures in very dim light, setting for just getting an image on film when they could, with very little effort, get a well-exposed picture?

Gwaltney Takes Over Landfill Contract Broken

By OLIVER WIEST

The Jacksonville city council last night terminated its contract with landfill operator James R. Hutton, approved a plan to purchase 150 acres of parkland adjacent to Nichols Park and discussed a number of personnel matters.

Meeting in special session, the council unanimously approved a proposal by Hutton releasing him from his $80,000-per-year contract to provide a refuse disposal site for Jacksonville and South Jacksonville. The agreement was effective midnight Wednesday.

The proposal, submitted by Hutton's attorney, David Robinson, calls for the city to settle its obligations to the contractor through May 23, reimburse him for the purchase of an air curtain destructor, and pay him an additional $1,800.

There was some doubt whether Hutton had actually paid about $2,500 for the air curtain destructor, a burning device, and it was agreed to hold that money in escrow until the dispute is settled.

During discussion of the agreement, Ald. Charles Frank commented, "I think we are paying a very small premium to get out of a very bad contract."

After voting to break the contract with Hutton, the council passed a resolution designating Roger Gwaltney of Springfield the landfill operator.

Gwaltney is expected to sign a contract essentially the same as the one Hutton held for the remaining two and a half years term of Hutton's original agreement. Gwaltney, a former employee of Hutton, has been operating the landfill for the past week or so and has his equipment on the site.

The council will have to pass another resolution approving the new contract with Gwaltney and suspending competitive bidding on the service.

Mayor Milton L. Hocking indicated the landfill problems aren't solved yet and that a special study group would be named to make recommendations on a long-term solution.

Park Land
The council voted to tap the general revenue sharing fund for $150,000 for the single-payment purchase of 150 acres of land to be added to Nichols Park. The other options available were the purchase of land over a 15-year period, which add $75,000 in interest charges to the transaction, or making a $10,000 down payment to the transaction, or making a $10,000 down payment with the balance payable at any time during the term of the contract.

The council's decision was based in part on a report from Steve Bockmier of Casler, Houser, Hutchison and Associates, consulting engineers, on the availability of grants.

Bockmier indicated the single-payment purchase of the land would be desirable if the city were to qualify for a state grant of up to 50 per cent of the land's value. Bockmier also recommended a recreation planning program be instituted if the city wanted to qualify for a grant.

Personnel Session
Following the special meeting, the council mulled over personnel matters for about 90 minutes. After that meeting mayor Hocking revealed:

— He would ask the council June 4 to confirm his nomination of Byron F. Holtenbrink as urban renewal director.

— Housing counselor Martin Hutchens would be nominated for the job of inspection department superintendent and building inspector.

— Building inspector Lawrence Taylor would step down June 1.

Ed Carrigan, Native Of City, Dies Wednesday

Jacksonville native Ed Carrigan died 1 p.m. Wednesday at St. John's hospital in Springfield. A retired groceryman, Mr. Carrigan had lived in Springfield for a number of years. He was 80 years old.

He was born a son of Maurice and Molly Carrigan. Survivors include his wife, Ella; three brothers, John of Chicago and Walter and Arthur, both of Springfield; and nephews and nieces.

He was preceded in death by several sisters and brothers. Funeral services will be 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the Cathedral church in Springfield with burial to be in that city.

Escapee Held After Capture In Springfield

Charles Earl Lewis, 18, of Milwaukee, Wis., was recaptured Wednesday morning about 3 a.m. in Springfield more than a month after he escaped from the Morgan county jail in Jacksonville.

The second fugitive, Robert W. Bradburn, 18, of 1008 W. State was recaptured the day of the escape.

Springfield detectives said Wednesday that Lewis was apprehended under a bed in an apartment which had been burglarized. Police were investigating the burglary when they flushed Lewis from under the bed.

It was not immediately known whether he would be charged by Springfield officials.

Lewis was scheduled to be returned to Jacksonville for appearance on the two counts of burglary and escape. He was indicted by a grand jury Wednesday morning on the charges.

DRIVER'S AGE WAS INCORRECT
Mrs. Genevieve Steging's age listed in connection with a car-motorcycle accident in Monday Courier and Tuesday Journal was incorrectly stated at 80. Mrs. Steging informed the Journal Courier that she was 79 on May 4.

DRIVER PAYS FINE WEDNESDAY
Marshall L. Sanders of 16 Somerset Drive entered a plea of guilty to failure to reduce speed Wednesday afternoon in Morgan county circuit court and was fined $15 and $10 costs.

Mayor Hocking was expected to nominate Holtenbrink, a former Jacksonville mayor, to the post now held by John Pine last Monday. Though Hocking claimed it was an oversight, some aldermen said the matter was delayed because the mayor didn't have the eight votes needed for Holtenbrink's confirmation.

One alderman said after the meeting he thought Hocking may have swung the balance in Holtenbrink's favor, though he predicted the vote would be a close one.

Mayor Hocking, asked about reports that Ald. Norm Ackerman had offered to drop his objections to the urban renewal plan if aldermen supporting Pine would vote for Holtenbrink, said he had not been a party to any deal.

Ackerman, chairman of the urban renewal committee and manager of Sear's, has led a fight to change the urban renewal plan to provide for more parking on the square. Ackerman, who couldn't be reached for comment on the reported deal last night, said recently he would continue to work for a change in the urban renewal plan.

Reorganization

Hutchens, whose confirmation will probably be unanimous, would be responsible for the administration of the inspection department. Under Taylor, the building inspector, plumbing inspector, housing counselor and weed and dog control officer reported directly to the mayor.

Hocking said he had not yet found anyone to fill the housing counselor's position.

Engineer Corps Works To Repair Damaged Levees

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Damage estimates and repair work to broken levee systems between Hannibal, Mo., and Cairo, Ill., rated high priority Wednesday on the still-flooded Mississippi River.

An Army Corps of Engineers official, Mel Doernhoefer, said all levees along the 250-mile stretch of the river except those at St. Louis and nearby Alton, Ill., would probably need repair.

"We are discovering some tremendous holes... holes that cannot be seen until the water goes down," said Doernhoefer. Assigned to estimate the levee damage, he said, are 55 corps personnel.

While the corps began its estimates, the river dipped to near its 30-foot flood stage at St. Louis and then began a climb to a 31-foot level expected Friday.

Heavy rains upstream kept it above flood stage by as much as 5 1/2 feet, with the outlooks for its return to within its banks delayed until next week.

Doernhoefer called some of the worst damage to levees that inflicted by a temporary confluence of the Mississippi with the Missouri at Portage Des Sioux, about seven miles above the permanent convergence of the two rivers.

"The Missouri is 12 feet higher than the Mississippi at that point, and the flow from the Missouri was responsible for heavy damage," he said.

A spokesman for the American Red Cross said the organization had expended $426,000 for flood relief, including $250,000 in the St. Louis area.

Salvation Army expenditure for the feeding of flood workers and victims was placed at $100,000. The organization served about 10,000 persons a day at canteens and other outlets, a spokesman said.

Still awaiting Department of Housing and Urban Development temporary housing at St. Charles on the Missouri River were 429 flood victims.

An HUD spokesman said 748 persons had already been placed in temporary housing there. The total for Missourians, the spokesman said, is 1,321, with 605 more awaiting placement.

Flood damage in Missouri and Illinois since early March has been placed at $150 million. At the height of the flooding, a total of 1.3 million acres were inundated.

MRS. ELIZABETH WOOD celebrated her 101st birthday yesterday. Mayor Milt Hocking dropped by to convey birthday wishes on behalf of everyone.

Centenarian's Plan For Successful Life

By FRANK BRIDGEWATER

Mrs. Elizabeth Wood says to live a long life you have to live "a clean, honest, busy life."

She should know. She celebrated her 101st birthday yesterday.

"I was just healthy when I was born," Mrs. Wood said. "I had clean, honest parents and followed what they taught me."

"I'm just as healthy as when I was a kid," she continued. "Although I can't see as well and remember things like I used to."

Loves Cookies

The alert centenarian admitted to a weakness for cookies. "I'm always hungry," she confessed, "anytime you want to give me anything, give me cookies."

Mrs. Wood was born about 10 miles south of Pittsfield in Pike county. Her maiden name was Ransom. "They're noted for their honesty," she said. She moved to Morgan county in 1885.

Talking about her husband William J., who died in 1933, Mrs. Wood said, "We went together at 14, married at 17 and lived together over 40 years. I loved him and I love him yet."

"He was the only man I ever cared about," she reflected. "I've never seen another man I'd even look at."

"I got 46 birthday cards this morning," Mrs. Wood announced. "Twenty-five yesterday, and a lot more before and a lot more to come."

Birthdays Party

A party was held yesterday in Mrs. Wood's honor at the Melrose Nursing Center, where she has been a resident since January of this year.

Mayor Milt Hocking stopped by to "wish you a happy birthday on behalf of all the people."

After hearing the assembled well-wishers sing "Happy Birthday," Mrs. Wood leaned forward, made the traditional silent wish, and gently blew out the three candles on her cake.

Mrs. Wood shared some of the wisdom she has acquired over the last century:

— "Never expect anyone to give you anything — stand on your own two feet."

— "Be busy — But always be honest."

— "Never do anything to disgrace your family."

— "Stay out of debt. Don't buy things you can do without."

IC Commencement Events Start May 24
A heavy schedule of Commencement weekend events begins Thursday at Illinois College, Jacksonville, with the annual initiation of new members of Phi Beta Kappa. The meeting, which is open only to members of the national academic honorary fraternity, will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Faculty-Trustee room in Tanner Hall.

Also scheduled at 9 p.m. Thursday is the Commencement play, "Androcles and the Lion," on Ames Woodland Stage, weather permitting. The presentation will be moved into Jones Theatre in case of inclement weather. Tickets will be available at the door.

Friday's schedule includes the Osage Orange picnic at 6:30 p.m. on the campus lawn, followed by unveiling of the Crampton Hall Centennial plaque at 7:30 p.m. A repeat performance of the play is to be at 9 p.m.

On Saturday, the board of trustees and the board of the alumni association have 9 a.m. meetings. From 4 to 5:30 p.m., the community is invited to join alumni in a reception for retiring President and Mrs. L. Vernon Caine on the lawn north of the Student Center. The event will be held inside the Student Center if weather is bad. Love Feasts of the seven literary societies will be held at 6:30 p.m. at various sites in the city.

A coffee hour in honor of graduating seniors and their parents, open to all, begins Sunday's activities from 8:30 to 9:45 a.m. in Smith House. Baccalaureate is at 10:30 a.m. in Rammelkamp Chapel, with the

Dr. Wood is retiring from the college this year, after serving as president for 13 years. Mrs. Wood attended installation ceremonies in 1960 and was invited to go up for the ceremonies honoring her son on his retirement, but had to decline.

Mrs. Wood also has seven grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild.

Birthdays Party
A party was held yesterday in Mrs. Wood's honor at the Melrose Nursing Center, where she has been a resident since January of this year.

Mayor Milt Hocking stopped by to "wish you a happy birthday on behalf of all the people."

After hearing the assembled well-wishers sing "Happy Birthday," Mrs. Wood leaned forward, made the traditional silent wish, and gently blew out the three candles on her cake.

Mrs. Wood shared some of the wisdom she has acquired over the last century:

Findley Urges Compulsory Fuel Rationing
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., has urged President Nixon to make the fuel allocation program mandatory.

In a letter to Nixon sent Wednesday, Findley said that ideally, it would be best "to allow our fuel industry to continue to operate on a competitive basis" and that the spirit of the administration's voluntary allocation program "is admirable."

However, he added, "reports I am receiving indicate this program is not working."

Illinois farmers, he pointed out, depend greatly upon independent dealers for their fuel supplies. But, he said, fuel allocations of independent dealers that had been terminated before the program was started have not been reinstated.

"Many dealers are unable to deliver fuel to farmers and the situation will worsen in the next two weeks," Findley said.

"Already some tractors are sitting idle in the fields during the most critical part of the planting season."

He asked the President to utilize the authority granted him under the extended Economic Stabilization Act and make compliance with the fuel allocation program mandatory.

Tax Credit Proposal Gets House Approval

By H. F. WOLLENBERG IV

Associated Press Writer

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois House Wednesday passed a measure which would grant a $10 tax credit from the state income tax despite Republican objections that passage of the bill may endanger a regional mass transportation authority in the Chicago area.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. James Londrigan, D-Springfield, was passed 111-31. It is one of several tax relief measures passed by the House this session and offers a $10 credit per exemption.

Republicans have backed tax relief measures in the form of sales tax reductions while Democrats have favored amending the state income tax law.

The measure Londrigan sponsored had the support of Gov. Daniel Walker, who proposed such a tax credit in his 1974 budget message.

"The people don't give a darn about concepts," Londrigan said to Republicans who termed the tax credit approach the wrong one.

"They want tax relief," he said.

Londrigan said his tax credit would reflect relief from the sales tax paid on food and drugs.

"There is not necessarily a relationship between the tax credit and the amount of sales tax a person pays," majority leader William Walsh, R-La-Grange Park, said.

Walsh backed a bill sponsored by Speaker W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest and passed earlier this session which would have provided a two per cent reduction in the five per cent sales tax on food and drugs.

That bill is now before the Senate.

Under a regional mass transportation plan offered in the House this week, that bill would be amended there to provide for an across-the-board one-half per cent reduction in the state sales tax.

"By voting for this bill, we are throwing away a regional mass transportation authority," Walsh said.

The cost to the state of the Londrigan bill was estimated at $110 million while the tax cut would cost about $60 million.

Walker said there was room in his budget for $69 million in tax relief.

A measure sponsored by Rep. Sam Maragos, D-Chicago, which paralleled the Walker tax exemption proposal was defeated earlier in the session.

"I would suggest that the people of Sangamon County should take a look at the type of people they are sending to Springfield," he said.

and only one Republican cast a vote for it.

That bill would have allowed a $350 income exemption or a $8.75 tax credit per person.

Republicans met in a conference before the Londrigan bill was brought to the floor where leaders attempted to convince party members to again refrain from voting on the Democratic-sponsored bill.

"It is unfortunate that the sponsor of this bill doesn't have the guts to stand up and say what he really means by this bill—that he is in favor of redistribution of income," Rep. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge, said.

The House spent most of the day at the amendment stage readying bills for final votes later in the session.

The Senate passed, 43-1, a measure sponsored by Sen. A.C. Bartulis, R-Bend, authorizing a study of the existing rules and proposed standards adopted by the Illinois Pollution Control Board.

Farmers have been urging legislators to blow the whistle on the state's pollution agencies because they claim the PCB has adapted unnecessary and costly standards.

The bill, passed and sent to the House would mandate the Institute for Environmental Quality to make the study and report back in March 1974.

The Senate also passed a bill which would require meat counters to remain open as long as the rest of the store is open.

The bill, opposed by labor leaders who contend such a bill would violate union contracts, was approved 32-4 and was sent to the House.

"You can't find meat after 6 p.m. in a grocery store," Sen. Terrell Clarke, R-Western Springs, said after the bill which he sponsored was passed.

The Londrigan bill for a tax credit, if passed, would mean a tax savings of $40 a year for a family of four.

Walsh blasted Londrigan personally for sponsoring the bill, saying "I suspect the gentleman is trying to make everybody happy."

Walsh noted that Londrigan earlier has sought passage of bills which would cost the state $4 million in sick pay for state employees and another that would cost even more money to fund Sangamon State University which is located in Springfield.
